NINA 'FED UP'

By JOHN BASSETT
Nina Holden, Victoria's 1962 Miss Canada, is expected to give up her crown and come home.

Her mother, Mrs. Ted Holden, 465 Foster, said she received three telephone calls from her daughter Tuesday and an official announcement on her abdicating the "throne" could come at any time.

Nina is "fed up" with the whole Miss Canada organization—or lack of organization. She is tired of "doing nothing" in her job, or broken promises from her employers, all apparently the result of lack of finances. (See page 33).

Mrs. Holden did not know if Nina would still enter the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City next September. Canadian officials had promised the trip to Nina and her mother.

"I don't know," Mrs. Holden told The Times. "But I do know that Nina is unhappy."

NOT LIKE HER

"I would be very happy if she came home. It's not like Nina to be upset."

Nina has been in Toronto since just after Christmas, and has been doing very little.

A cross-Canada tour has been cancelled, and a trip to Europe planned for her this summer also appears to have been dropped.

"A public relations official who also phoned me last night described the whole thing as a shambles," Mrs. Holden stated.

ABDICTION?

Caught in the middle of Miss Canada Pageant controversy is Victoria's Nina Holden, Miss Canada 1962. The pert 18-year-old may soon resign her crown and come home to Victoria as result of broken promises and pageant's financial problems.

Small Tax Cuts, Huge Deficit In 'Blue Plate Special' Budget

POLITICIANS UNHAPPY

Businessmen See Boost In Sales, Jobs

By FRANK RUTTER

Business and industry in Victoria today hailed the new federal budget as a job-booster and sales-promoter.

However, the political reaction was definitely unhappy.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault described the budget as "a miserable bowl of thin gruel."

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said it was a "frightful budget; no imagination."

Social Credit League president George Hahn called it "a miserable handout for all Canadians."

CUTS WELCOMED

Most enthusiastic reaction came from the forest industry which receives special tax concessions aimed at boosting sales.

Businessmen generally welcomed special tax cuts for profits on increased sales.

Industry welcomed extension of tax concessions for research.

One note of disappointment was sounded by provincial government officials who want Ottawa to share more of revenues lost by a two-thirds income tax credit against the provincial logging tax.

ENCOURAGED

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president A. E. Walters said businessmen are encouraged by the incentive for increased sales.

"This should have the effect of making our products more competitive on the world market place," he said.

The Chamber of Commerce notes with satisfaction the measures taken by Finance Minister Donald Fleming to stimulate expansion in industry, both in production and research," he said.

MORE JOBS

"They should be effective in providing more jobs—jobs which are urgently required for our rapidly swelling labor force."

Mr. Walters said the budget seemed to be a step in the right direction for improving the economy generally.

The forest industry has high hopes of boosting world sales through the incentive provided in the budget.

"There is no doubt that the reductions in tax respecting profits will be an incentive to

PACIFISTS PLAN SAIL

NEW YORK (AP)—The Committee for Nonviolent Action, a pacifist group, announced today it will attempt to sail a small boat into the Christmas Island area of the Pacific Ocean in June "to protest the resumption of atmospheric nuclear weapons testing."

The committee said the boat already is under construction on the west coast, and should be seaworthy by June 1. It was described as a "30 or 35-foot" sailing ship.

The announcement did not say where the craft is being constructed.

The U.S. is expected to resume testing in the Christmas Island area in late April.

Display Political Sense'

GENEVA (Reuters)—The United States today pleaded with Russia to show "some reasonableness, flexibility and political sense" on the deadlocked issue of banning nuclear weapons tests.

The U.S. delegate to the 17th United Nations disarmament conference, Arthur Dean, made the plea after he read into the conference record the text of the Kennedy-Macmillan joint appeal to Russian Premier Khrushchev for a nuclear test ban treaty. Otherwise the U.S. would resume testing.

Russian delegate Valerian Zorin said he would comment on the statement at Thursday's session when delegates hold a full-scale debate on the nuclear test ban deadlock.

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow radio Tuesday night described the joint British-American appeal for Soviet acceptance of an effective ban on nuclear tests as a "face-saving maneuver."

Price Hike For Steel Angers JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today a new round of steel price increases constitutes "a wholly unjustifiable and irresponsible defiance" of United States interests.

Kennedy told a press conference the price boost would increase the costs of homes, autos, appliances and other items for every American family.

Furthermore, he said, he has been advised the increase would add $1,000,000 to the cost of U.S. national defense "at a time when every dollar is needed."

UTTER CONTEMPT

"The facts of the matter are, there is no justification for an increase in steel prices."

Kennedy said that when the U.S. faces crises in Berlin and Asia and is seeking economic stability; is seeking reservists to leave home and servicemen to risk their lives and is asking union members to hold down their requests, the American people will find it hard, "as I do," to understand what "utter contempt" for the interests of all Americans.

Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest producer, was the first to fall in line behind U.S. Steel's price-hiking action Tuesday night.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp. followed suit a short while later.

The industry's sudden price decisions caught the capital by surprise. It was criticized by administration spokesmen, Democratic senators and labor leaders.

AFL-CIO President George Meany called the action a "price gouging" economic power play that insulted the federal government and the American people.

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—No move has been made by Canadian basic steel industries to follow the U.S. Steel Corporation's $6-a-ton price increase, spokesmen said today.

A spokesman for Steel Company of Canada said: "Action taken by the U.S. Steel Corporation in regard to price has no bearing on the Canadian situation."

Business Aided; Allowance Upped For Dependents

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—A blueplate special for the go-go businessman was served up Tuesday night by Finance Minister Fleming in his pre-election budget speech.

Main feature of a budget forecasting a 1962-63 deficit of $745,000,000 and reducing the tax take by $130,000,000 was a rebate as high as 50 per cent on taxes due on profits from increased sales by manufacturing and processing firms.

Personal and corporate income tax rates remain unchanged.

If the budget was designed as a vote-gatherer in advance of the general election expected in June, it wasn't blazingly apparent.

Mr. Fleming made a modest bow in the direction of the individual taxpayer by lopping off $35,000 from revenue in the personal income tax field.

He accomplished this by raising deductions from taxable income for dependents by $50—to $300 for children 16 and under and to $550 for other dependents, whether children or adults.

Opposition Leader Pearson, referring to the sixth deficit in a row since the Conservatives

7 Per Cent Boost in GNP Predicted

Mr. Fleming forecast a seven-per-cent increase in the gross national product—compared with last year's 2.5-per-cent rise—and said the central purpose of his budget was "the encouragement of economic growth."

The tax incentives were designed to spur increased production and employment.

In brief, these incentives are: 1. Cancellation of 50 per cent of the tax on the first $50,000 of taxable income arising from increased sales by manufacturers and processors and cancellation of 25 per cent of the tax on any additional income arising from increased sales. The increased sales will be calculated on the dollar value of gross sales this year against those in 1961.

Sales tax reductions would amount to about $2,000,000.

Mr. Pearson made the most of the 11 minutes at his disposal before the House adjourned at 10 p.m. and jabbed away at the $745,000,000 deficit.

Pearson Raps Fleming Predictions

Mr. Fleming had been wrong every year in predicting the increase in the gross national product, Mr. Pearson said.

The Liberals when in office had balanced budgets and had paid off $2,000,000,000 off the national debt. Now the Conservatives had added nearly $3,000,000 to the debt.

By their votes, Mr. Pearson said, Canadians would soon condemn the government.

New Power Acts Included in Suit

McK. Brown said the amendments to the corporation's statement of claim do no more than allege the two new statutes are unconstitutional.

The attorney-general, with the whole force of the legislature behind him, has created this situation and we have had to apply to amend," he said.

H. McFarlane, counsel for the attorney-general, did not oppose the amending application.

Trial of B.C. Power's suit was set for May 1. It had been scheduled for April 17, but B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, the company created by the took over the B.C. Power, asked more time for preparation.

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA—1862

APRIL 11

Hon. Allen Francis, the newly-appointed U.S. consul for this port, arrived on the Broth Jonathan to take up residence here with his family. He was honored with a 17-gun salute from HMS Topaze.

Aime Marchand, the assayer accused of stealing between $7,000 and $10,000 (see April 7, 10), was apprehended at Cowichan, where he had been hiding out. His presence was revealed for the sum of $500, raised by the bilked merchants, by a man at whose home he had boarded for three years. Hailed into police court, he was obviously nervous at the hostile attitude of the crowd. The case was remanded until tomorrow, at the request of Police Chief Smith.

A portion of the brick coping of Capt. Reid's new building on Wharf Street fell to the ground, narrowly missing workmen engaged in laying gas pipes.

Th' Budget seems t' be a case o' least said soonest lended.

Pears t' be Clean-up, Paint-up and Put-up with Week at th' city hall.

ROUND-A-ABOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Last week this paper ran a picture of A. H. Burnell Higgs and a queer-looking rocklike substance which he found on his East Saanich Road property.

There was thought the substance might be a meteorite, but alas, no luck.

A mines department geologist found it is of volcanic origin. Nice try anyway, as meteorites are worth about $200.

The funniest verb on the current NHL hockey broad-casts is the word "watched."

Last night, for instance, announcer Bill Hewitt cried: "Armstrong is watched by Nesterenko."

At this juncture, Mr. Nesterenko had both arms wrapped around Armstrong's head in a viselike grip; his stick was between Armstrong's legs; one leg had the beginning of a scissor's grip; and the Leaf was jammed tight against the boards. A detachment of Commandos couldn't have pried the two apart.

So—watch for "watched." And try to keep a straight face.

Following a roundabout item on Saturday which credited a Mrs. Roy Anstee with dealing her brother-in-law Fred Elliott a 29-crib hand, we received a letter from Mrs. Fred Elliott, who informed us that it was she who had dealt the hand to Roy Anstee, and that Fred Elliott had died three years ago.

Mrs. Elliott said she was pretty excited when she phoned us and hopes we don't think she is "too much of a crank."

We don't think you are a crank at all, Mrs. Elliott. We must have been pretty excited too.

The Dancers of Bali, who arrived in Victoria today for a performance tonight, eat only Oriental food and take two meals a day—one at 2 p.m., the other at 11:30 p.m. after their performance.

They have 20 pounds of rice, cooked dry without flavoring; then added their own spices and condiments, dried meats, vegetables and fruits—all from Bali.

Arrangements have been made for the 50 dancers to eat all their meals at Don Mac's restaurant.

A memo on a service club bulletin urged committee chairmen to do a little of the work themselves, instead of passing it on to others.

Quoth the bulletin: "If Moses had been a committee, undoubtedly the Israelites would still be in Egypt."

A former Spanish Civil War comrade of Ernest Hemingway's recently put an ad in a Fernie newspaper reading: "I AM LONELY."

BILL SKINNER.

Skinner had but one answer to his ad and that was from a woman wanting to do his cleaning.

Herbert Siebner, well-known Victoria artist, met Skinner in the Canadian Legion in Fernie last week and the two had a long talk.

"He was the most interesting man I met on the whole of my inland tour," said Siebner.

Pilots Threaten National Tie-Up

MONTREAL (UPI)—The day and all shipping has been 278-member Federation of St. Lawrence River Pilots today, tied up in the St. Lawrence River, except for vessels that have chosen to navigate the river without a pilot.

The national pilots committee, Bedard said, "includes our federation plus all the pilots working on the west and east coasts." Such a walkout "would tie up shipping throughout the country," he added.

Harbors hardest hit would include Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., Saint John, N.B., and other east coast ports, he said.

A spokesman for the B.C. Coast Licensed Pilots Association said today there had been no communication with the St. Lawrence pilots.

He said the regular annual meeting of the group would be held in Vancouver, and the St. Lawrence situation "likely" would be discussed.

There are 64 B.C. Coast pilots, 22 of them operating out of Victoria.

Chinese Flower Girl Urged for Tourists

Visitors to Victoria should be greeted by a costumed Chinese girl handing out flowers to the ladies, tourist commissioner William Hawkins said Tuesday night.

We need more novelties of this kind," Mr. Hawkins told a meeting of the Credit Granters' Association of Victoria.

He suggested that Bastion Square would be an ideal site for painters, sculptors and craftsmen to sell their wares to tourists, and a red-coated officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police should be on duty there.

We must remember that the red coat is the image of Canada in the United States."

"IMAGE OF CANADA"

An American businessman attending the meeting said: "If the RCMP won't provide one of their personnel, why not get a man of your own and dress him in a broad-brimmed hat, a red uniform and a horse."

"A civilian cannot use the RCMP uniform," replied Mr. Hawkins.

The plant, only one of its kind in the world, was built as a co-operative project by Atomic Energy of Canada, Ontario Hydro and the Canadian General Electric Company Limited.

The atomic furnace in the station began "burning" uranium and generating heat for the first time at 2:40 a.m. EST. The event was witnessed by 80 officials of the three companies involved in construction of the project.

A variety of commissioning tests will be conducted during the next few months before the reactor is brought up to its full heat output. At that time steam created by this heat will be fed auditorium. With teachers and police not immediately able to cope with them, they began throwing papers, erasers and other items out the windows.

Presently, they dashed into the street and about half-a-dozen of the boys began punching each other with their fists as the remainder excitedly scurried around.

Officers who broke up the fighting said the presence of a television truck and camera crew may have spurred the boys into staging a spectacle.

Most of the school's teachers were marching in a picket line to protest what they called a "starvation budget."

At a meeting of 5,000 teachers, members of the United Federation of Teachers, shamed down President Charles Cogen's postponement plea and voted by a margin of 313 votes Tuesday night to go on strike.

The federation, which has 15,000 members, is the bargaining agent for all 40,000 public school teachers. It won the right in an election.

There was a strong possibility the board of education might seek a court injunction against the strike. It was prepared Monday to obtain a restraining order to halt the walkout, originally scheduled for Tuesday.

LABOR LEADERS FEAR OTHER PROVINCES TO FOLLOW

Is B.C. Setting Pace for Anti-Labor Laws?

By AB KENT

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Labor leaders here fear that B.C. is regarded by other provinces as Canada's leader in anti-labor legislation.

Liberally-minded labor people also are deplored a tendency to witch-hunting in Canada and what they call a resurgence of "John Birchers" or equivalent ultra-conservatism.

B.C. has long been regarded by all as a model place to live, to work and to earn; it is still being looked to as an ideal place to live, perhaps to earn, but not so much to work for others, the labor people think.

The reason is the federal government's restrictive legislation of the past two years, legislation at least one western provincial government is anxious to duplicate and which another is already introducing.

For two consecutive years the Alberta Social Credit government has been dissuaded from introducing restrictive legislation copied from B.C. and urged by employer groups.

On Tuesday, delegates to the fourth convention of Canadian Labor Congress in Vancouver, passed without debate an emergency resolution introduced by the Manitoba Federation of Labor to inform the Manitoba government (Conservative) of its strong opposition to proposed legislation.

GATHERING OF PRINCES FOR GERMAN HOLIDAY

FRANKFURT (AP)—Prince Philip and his 13-year-old son, Prince Charles, landed today at Frankfurt International Airport to begin what is expected to be a visit of a few days in West Germany.

Prince Philip, tanned from his recent South American tour, stepped off the plane after he was met by Prince and Princess Ludwig of Hessen and British consular officials.

Also on hand to meet Prince Philip and Prince Charles were the princes Wolf, 13, and George, 12, of Hanover, nephews of Prince Philip, who are staying with the Hessen family over Easter vacation.

The mother of the Hanover princes is a sister of Prince Philip. Her name is Princess Sophia of Hanover.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Mr.

Justice W. D. Ranch said he will return to Toronto today after completing what he described as highly satisfactory arrangements with the United States to speed exchange of information on organized crime.

The Ontario justice, who heads a provincial royal commission on gambling and racketeering, said the confidential arrangements will be "imminently helpful to my investigation."

"We have common problems and we have agreed to co-operate with each other in attacking them."

U.S. Attorney-General Robert Kennedy said in a statement "we are going to launch a joint effort against organized crime."

VANCOUVER (CP)—A $3,000 cheque for research into blindness and diseases of the eye has been given the University of B.C. faculty of medicine by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind to highlight Prevention of Blindness Week. The CNIB said 2,000 Canadians lose their sight every year and half the cases could be prevented.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters)—Sir Alexander Bustamante today led his opposition Labor party back to power and promptly called for a defence pact with the United States "to protect us against foreign invasion."

The Laborites made their comeback in a general election Tuesday that ousted the People's National Party of Premier Norman Manley, which has ruled the island for seven years.

The official result today gave Labor 26 seats and the PNP 19 seats in the 45-seat House of Representatives.

After the result was announced, Bustamante pledged himself to fight any Communist attempt to infiltrate Jamaica.

TO GET PROTECTION Bustamante's new government will be charged with guiding Jamaica to complete independence from Britain Aug. 6. Until then, the self-governing island is guaranteed protection from Britain.

Bustamante, 77, known as Busta to Jamaicans, told a questioner "our choice is democracy" when asked if Jamaica would follow a neutral line after independence.

He also declared: "We have a good police force but we have some scamps in it. If it became necessary to confine the police to barracks and put the army in charge I would do it."

In the election, the final returns gave the Labor party 49.73 per cent of the vote to 48.91 for Manley's PNP.

Hard Blow to City Body If Carpenters Expelled

By Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Expulsion of International Brotherhood of Carpenters by the Canadian Labor Congress holds a threat to the existence of Victoria Labor Council.

This significant local issue is only a sidelight to the national situation should the convention meeting here decide to throw carpenters "out of the club."

Much depends upon an executive recommendation which could come to the floor at any time.

The threat arises out of a jurisdictional dispute in Newfoundland, where carpenters—representing the CLC's third largest union and International Woodworkers of America each—claim loggers.

And the result is that they are at loggerheads and looking to congress for a decision.

NO ALTERNATIVE

The IWA charges carpenters with raiding its membership, and if in the opinion of the CLC executive the charge is founded, the fourth constitutional convention has no alternative but to expel the 60,000 carpenters from Congress.

So far it is not certain that the issue will be allowed to come to the floor, but there could be sufficient agitation from carpenters to force it to a head. The alternative could be to refer the matter back for further study.

Confederation president Claude Jodoin isn't tipping the delegates on that subject.

WHEN READY

Asked directly from the floor Tuesday afternoon whether or when the issue might be broached, Mr. Jodoin replied:

"When the executive is ready to report, the convention will be notified."

A carpenter delegate said privately his union is not worried about what was going to happen, but it wants something done.

"It has been nearly a year now. We've had the run-around long enough," he said.

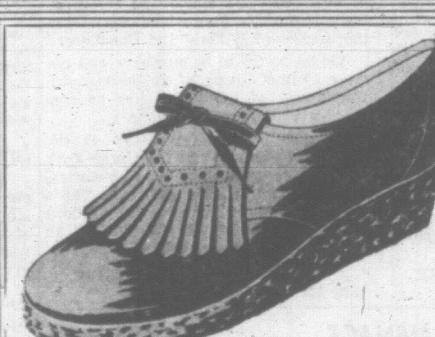

A Victoria Labor Council spokesman hoped the Newfoundland dispute would never reach the convention floor.

In the council, from which the expelled union would have to withdraw, carpenters have long been a pillar of strength, both in support of unionism and in their financial contribution to the council.

According to spokesman, losing carpenters would put the council "flat on its back."

In the last two years, withdrawals from the council have

LABOR LEADERS FEAR OTHER PROVINCES TO FOLLOW

Is B.C. Setting Pace for Anti-Labor Laws?

By AB KENT

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Labor leaders here fear that B.C. is regarded by other provinces as Canada's leader in anti-labor legislation.

Liberally-minded labor people also are deplored a tendency to witch-hunting in Canada and what they call a resurgence of "John Birchers" or equivalent ultra-conservatism.

B.C. has long been regarded by all as a model place to live, to work and to earn; it is still being looked to as an ideal place to live, perhaps to earn, but not so much to work for others, the labor people think.

The reason is the federal government's restrictive legislation of the past two years, legislation at least one western provincial government is anxious to duplicate and which another is already introducing.

For two consecutive years the Alberta Social Credit government has been dissuaded from introducing restrictive legislation copied from B.C. and urged by employer groups.

On Tuesday, delegates to the fourth convention of Canadian Labor Congress in Vancouver, passed without debate an emergency resolution introduced by the Manitoba Federation of

The Rake's Progress

MR. FLEMING'S LATEST OF six deficit budgets means that the disorder of our national finances will continue unchecked. Probably it also means that after the election this or some other government will be compelled to cure the disorder by heavy tax increases.

Meanwhile, having piled up a deficit of $791 million in the last fiscal year, Mr. Fleming blandly proposes another of $745 millions. But the next deficit will surely be larger than that. As he has always done in the past Mr. Fleming will introduce more expenditures before the year is out, he has yet to meet large deficits in the old age pension system, and most likely his estimate of economic growth and hence of revenues is too optimistic as it has generally been in former budgets.

Yet this is the same finance minister who in his opposition days demanded a balanced budget and promised to reduce government spending; the same minister who in 1960 declared that he must and had balanced the budget as a result "of considered aims and efforts." Of course that budget was not balanced but turned into another huge deficit, and from then on Mr. Fleming abandoned any attempt to live within the nation's means.

In 1960 the national economy was shrinking and an argument could be made for a deficit to stimulate its growth, though Mr. Fleming said that no stimulant was needed. Today, however, he says the economy is growing at the very high rate of 7 per cent annually and thus increasing the yield from present tax rates. If the budget is ever to be balanced and the drift into debt and monetary inflation arrested, this is the year to do it or at least to begin doing it.

Instead, in complete disregard of the improving business climate, Mr. Fleming plans to increase the deficit and debt of his five years in office to a total of something like $3 billions.

He cannot say as he tried to say in 1960 that all this is part of a considered economic plan, a bold management of the Keynesian cycle. The latest deficit is simply the result of his failure to get his finances under control. He recklessly raised his expenditures but, before an election, he dared not raise his tax rates. That will come later on.

To be sure, he has offered business some minor stimulants by way of tax reductions on increased sales and some sops to the voters by way of small income tax exemptions, but he had piled up such gigantic obligations on every front that he was unable even with his new deficit to do anything significant for the economy. This in short is not an economic but a political budget designed solely to get the government past an election after which Mr. Fleming or his successor must grapple with the heritage of five mismanaged years.

It is quite clear anyway that we need expect no end of financial disorder from Mr. Fleming. He has had six separate opportunities to enforce the budgetary methods which he had so often advocated. Doubtless he tried to enforce them and two years ago triumphantly announced that "I am happy to say that we have reached this goal of a balanced budget."

But the Government's determination to please the voters with easy largesse, its refusal to face the facts of Canada's situation, its decision to win the next election at any cost have defeated Mr. Fleming. It would be unfair to say that he is doing now what he wants to do or that he believes in the policies issuing under his name. He is doing what the government thinks necessary to win an election but for the present financial mess he cannot escape his full responsibility.

The voters must decide not long hence whether they have confidence in a treasurer who continues to do exactly the opposite of his promises and presumably of his own convictions. Even if he and his government are dismissed it will be years before the nation recovers from their mismanagement.

More Cars, Higher Hazard

LAST YEAR THE NUMBER OF motor vehicles of all kinds registered in British Columbia rose by more than 20,000, the passenger car and commercial registrations reaching 467,370.

The basis of early licensing statistics, the total will increase again this year.

That, in arithmetic logic, means that unless people using the roads, either in cars or as pedestrians, show more care, the accident, and possibly the fatality, rate will rise.

This deduction carries an automatic corollary. Every safety measure must be made more effective than it is if we are to reduce the shameful toll of death, injury and loss on the highways and streets.

Victoria is now engaged in a pedestrian safety campaign, aimed at checking absent-mindedness or carelessness that can be fatal on the part of those who step out onto the street. No one has more reason than the pedestrian to appreciate the virtues of this campaign.

Beyond that the railways are going further in their "Signs of Life" campaign—the costly erection of warnings at hazardous crossings and on highways cautioning motorists of the dangers immediately present.

Both efforts can be effective only to the degree that they impress the public, motoring and walking.

The public has extra reasons to recognize and honor the warnings—an added 20,000 last year, more this. The volume of traffic increases the possibilities of accidents. The higher hazard can be reduced only by greater alertness and use of common sense by the driver and by the person afoot.

A Loss to the Service

THE ANNOUNCED RETIREMENT of Mr. Livingston Merchant, U.S. ambassador to Canada, is a loss to this country and to the United States foreign service.

As a career diplomat, Mr. Merchant had carried out his duties in various parts of the world, and those who heard him speak here recently were impressed by his wide grasp of affairs and particularly his understanding of the special relationships between Canada and the United States.

Canada was honored to have Mr. Merchant represent his country in Ottawa, and we may hope that a man of equal stature may be found to replace him.

Funds to Fight Cancer

ONCE MORE THE VICTORIA branch of the Canadian Cancer Society is engaged in the nationwide Conquer Cancer campaign.

This is a project with several purposes. Its organizers seek to impress upon the public the need for wider understanding of the disease, of preventive measures, and of the benefits of early diagnosis and treatment.

Whole-heartedly supported by the British Columbia medical profession, the campaign draws attention to research, education, treatment and welfare involved in the crusade to which this community is being asked to contribute $50,000.

Upstaging

ALL HAIL MR. STAN BERMAN, self-styled "world's champion gate-crasher," who provided one of the few bright spots in the Academy Award telecast earlier this week.

Consider Mr. Berman's achievement. He is a New York cab-driver. The Academy Award presentations were held in Santa Monica, at the opposite end of the country. But Mr. Berman, impeccable in a tuxedo, breezed past the security guard and presented his own Oscar to master-of-ceremonies Bob Hope.

In so doing, Mr. Berman managed to upstage the imposing apparatus of the entire motion picture industry. And that, by any standards, is quite an accomplishment.

OUT-FIGURING THE EXPERTS

By B. A. TOBIN

The Budget: It's Easy When You Know How

WELL, Joe, what do you think about the budget?

Oh, hello there, Jim. Well, it's quite a budget, isn't it?

Ummmmmm. I was interested to know what you thought of it.

Well, I'll tell you. Jim. Retention of the recurring deficit indicates a cumulative shortfall in estimated revenue as compared with a scale of expenditures based on a predictable uniform rise in the Gross National Product.

Tobin

You really think that?

Sure. My own feeling is that there must be a readjustment of the national income-outgo ratio if we are to avoid an ultimate maladjustment between the socio-political factor and the production-consumption index.

Hmmmm. Well, I sort of figured that was coming. I must say you put it very nicely. I guess you've studied this stuff pretty closely, eh?

Well, I'll tell you, Jim. A man in my position has to have a grasp of the general trend; even if there's no time to get on top of all the details.

I guess you're right, Joe. Do you think this business about the deficit is going to make much difference?

A repetitive deficit position must inevitably result in inflationary consequences, with a correspondingly deleterious effect on industrial initiative, venture capital, unit productivity and zonal employment.

Gosh. I never thought of it in quite that way. How do you figure all that out, Joe?

Well, I break it down. You see, I used to read all about those millions and billions and I just didn't get anywhere with them. You know—billions for this and billions for that. After about three paragraphs of that stuff I was lost.

I'm right with you there. So how do you get around it?

I suddenly stumbled on the secret of the whole thing one day while I was doing over the newspaper report. Why not get it all back to fundamentals, see? Like the simple stuff we used to have in school?

But . . . ?

All I did, Jim, was skip all those big figures. I substituted for them, see? Now every time I see "millions" I just read "apples," and any place they say "billions" I just put in "oranges."

You mean . . . ?

Exactly, Jim. When I see where the deficit is going to be $745,000,000 it gets me all confused. I keep having to count the zeros to see what they mean. But now I just think of apples. It's easy to imagine 745 apples, isn't it? I just think of a few cases of apples and the whole thing seems easy.

Well, I'll be . . .

The same way with the Gross National Product, whatever that is. Whenever I see them talking about $39,400,000,000 I switch it into oranges. Thirty-nine oranges, I figure—about three oranges more than last year. See how it works out?

Well, what do you know? I never thought of that. Let's see how it goes. Translating this news item here, you could say that we spend a little more than one and a half oranges on defence and that the new tax cut is going to cost the government 130 apples a year.

Now you're getting it.

Say, this is fun. But how about all that big-word stuff you were handing me—you know, the epiglotis of the fraudulation and all that?

That's the easiest part of it all, Jim. I figured out long ago that those experts didn't really understand what they were saying anyway. And they knew they were safe because I didn't understand them. So now I just reel it off as it comes to mind, and the experts can't understand ME. They think I'm an expert too.

Wonderful! I'm going to try it as soon as I can work out a paragraph or two of it. This is going to be a big help—you know, with the wife and friends and all that. Thanks a million, I mean, an apple.

Not at all, Joe. I'm glad to help. It's the best thing I've stumbled on in an orange year.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Hurting Britain

I should like to congratulate you on your editorial of April 5, "How to Hurt Britain."

In my opinion it is not a question of being pro-British or anti-British but just a matter of dollars and cents. Our government does not seem to understand that trade is a two-way channel and that if we do not permit Britain to compete in our market we just will not be able to sell to her. In spite of all the trade barriers which this government has erected against trade with Britain they have the audacity to complain of Britain's action in approaching the European Common Market.

I understand that the engines which will be supplied by the Canadian Fairbanks Company for the two new ferries are actually not of Canadian manufacture but in fact the engines are assembled at the Canadian plant from component parts made in the U.S.A. In other words I believe that very little of the engines are of Canadian manufacture. In addition through the introduction of these new engines the ferry company will have to maintain another complete set of spare parts and this in itself is not a negligible consideration.

people who have paid for the campsites in the first place."

Last year I planned to take my family camping at Miracle Beach, as we have often done before, but when the $2 fee was imposed we did not go.

Apart from the added expense for a holiday the fact that we are taxed to the limit to pay among other things for the upkeep and development of these same campsites seemed to me to be a mitigated gall.

The flimsy excuse of the "camp hog" is a poor one indeed. There are plenty of ways to prevent such hogging. Anyway, every family in BC pays a considerable amount each year into the 5 per cent sales tax. Doesn't that entitle us to our own campsites?

Having driven through the city several times, I was puzzled by the artist's conception of Trail until I realized that he had inadvertently signed the sketch while it was upside down.

Viewed the right way up it is obvious it was made from the observation point on the road west of the city, with the lookout promontory and explanatory sign in the foreground, the employees' bungalows on the flats below, the overhead cranes, smokestacks and smelters in the background.

HONG KONG:

Tale of The Chan Clan

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ON a dark night a few weeks ago, a notable event occurred in the long, usually uneventful history of the Chan family village, on the north coast of Kwantung province. Twenty-nine people, including two fishermen from the neighboring village of the Chul family, stealthily boarded one of the village's fishing junks. One of the three local Communist officials of the village production brigade, Chan To-tou, led the escape; and the group was joined by two of the militiamen who were supposed to guard the fishing fleet each night.

This made it easy. After 40 hours' sailing, they reached Hong Kong in safety. And here I found most of them still leading a kind of uprooted village life together, in one of the bunk-crammed lodging houses where the refugees rent beds for just under 20 American cents a night.

Shockingly Low

Concerning present-day life in the people's paradise, the men and women of the Chan clan told the same tale of hard work and creeping starvation which never quite loses its horror because of its familiarity. Thus in a fishing village with very little land of its own, the basic grain ration was shockingly low even by Chinese Communist standards—no more than half a pound of rice per day for a adult worker.

The famine-ration was eked out by sweet potatoes grown on the new private plots—pocket handkerchiefs of poor land about five yards square per person. The ration rice was never polished now, which explained the reduced incidence of beri-beri. But even so, everyone would have died long since, if it had not been for the fishermen.

The fishermen have to be treated more generously, since their boats give them a dangerous mobility. So their rice ration is a pound-and-a-half of rice a day, plus a pound-and-a-half of fish from their own catches every other day, plus a little extra if the catches exceed the "norm."

Just about everyone in the Chan clan village has a fisherman in the family.

The fisherman's rations and the family loyalty which the Communists have attacked combined to save the village of the Chan clan, even though the old and the very young and those who were handicapped did not survive, and all those who did survive suffered from hunger during every waking hour.

"Only Brigade Chief Fu and Party Secretary Hsu were red-faced and plump. All the rest of us were weak and pale. Even he felt hunger, a party cadre as he was!" Thus spoke the shrewdest of the villagers, Chan Kui-cheong, pointing indignantly to Chan To-tou.

Creeping Starvation

But this tale of creeping starvation in the people's paradise is a tale twice told by now. What made the people from the village of the Chan clan so interesting was the fact that they still formed a fairly cohesive group.

From their combined testimony, one could make out the village story rather clearly. Even before the Communists came, this had been a poor village. There was no landlord. The few acres of rice land and the wider dry-land fields were locally owned in tiny parcels.

But the village staple—the stuff that bought the extra rice the village could not grow—was fish. From this community of 700

Forty-Four Bucks in the Hole

MY newspaper tells me that a "federal budget deficit of $791,400,000—largest ever in peacetime—was estimated by Finance Minister Fleming for last fiscal year."

I know. I should be properly impressed. As a member of what I'm told is our affluent society, I shrug the whole thing off, not because I'm affluent. The fact is that $791,400,000 phrased that way just doesn't mean anything to me.

In print, $791,400,000 is merely a series of figures.

Is it the number of grains in a bucket of sand? the number of miles from here to a star? the number of gallons in a particular lake?

Some day I hope people who handle finance will get around to talking my language. If an expert had bothered to break the tie down, I could be properly alarmed by the deficit that has been added to the other deficits Mr. Fleming has reported.

With the simple numberwork I learned in school, I can, of course, melt the thing down to recognizable size.

If Canada has a population of 18 million and the deficit is $791 million, then it represents about $44 for every man, woman and child in the country.

That means, I think, that I've gone another $44 in hock on Canada's yearly operations. Counting my wife, that puts us another $88 in the hole. Add in the three children and we're $220 in the red, and with the two grandmothers we've Micawbered ourselves into a nasty little $308 debt in 12 months.

These figures I can understand very nicely. A couple of weeks ago a friend of mine offered me an old rowboat for less than $44. It wasn't quite what I wanted and while I was figuring whether I should pay less than $44 for it, or save the amount to put toward something closer to what I desired, somebody else who knew a bargain bought the boat.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Revising the Bible

LONDON — That current best-seller on your side of the Atlantic and of course here too, the New English Bible (New Testament), is to be revised within the next five years.

The revision will not affect the general plan and character of the work but will aim at correcting any mistakes and amending forms of expression.

The reason it will be up to five years hence is because in that period the new version of the Old Testament is expected to be completed and then it will be necessary to consider the Bible as a whole.

Lucrative source of income for the Royal College of Physicians is failing doctors who sit the exam for membership and hope to earn the right to put the magic letters M.R.C.P. (Lond.) after their names. It represents an average annual revenue of $60,000.

Around 1,500 physician from Britain and overseas sit the month's examination each year and 90 per cent of them are rejected.

In the quaint terminology of the College these mere 150 who are successful don't "pass the examination." They "defeat the examiners."

At $45 per attempt the 1,350 failures

(many of whom have as many as four and five times, so important is the qualification to their careers) provide a handsome contribution each year to the College's coffers.

Speaking of doctors . . . the eminent surgeon, Mr. Dickson Wright (surgeons here insist on the "Mr.") confesses to having a soft spot for the fair sex.

Says he: "After 35 years of dealing with women patients, I must say I'm very fond of the ladies. They cut up very nicely."

Although the strike of TV actors and actresses drags on into its fifth month, with the net result that British televiewers now get their late-night movies early, a settlement has been reached in another strike.

The 120 makers of hand-sewn cricket balls, who walked out en bloc a month ago, are back at work. They had demanded an extra sixpence an hour and settled for threepence ha-penny.

I understand that My Fair Lady is, with a change of theatre, persisting in New York. It is a pretty tired show here. I learned this when I went to the box office to see whether I could get some tickets for someone. The person ahead of me asked for six tickets for that night.

"Sure, where do you want them, anywhere in the theatre," said the man behind the grillwork.

Gardening Books by Hundreds

Any spare moment is reading time for gardeners, and while they may have more spare moments during winter, it is during the active gardening seasons that we are likely to need specific information on our plants.

This week is Canadian Library Week, and while we may get tired of "weeks" we can never tire of books. In them we find fresh viewpoints, other gardeners' opinions and experiences, and information which can be sifted for the parts which apply to our own particular problems.

The easiest way for a lukewarm gardener to become an enthusiast is to borrow a library book on one specific plant in which he is already mildly interested.

Take hydrangeas, for instance. Many people do not like the large round-headed pink or blue kinds, but find many of the distinctly different other types more acceptable for their purposes.

In Victoria Public Library is a book on hydrangeas by Michael Haworth-Booth, who has spent many years studying in detail this one group of plants.

GRANTS LISTED

For Sport

OTTAWA (UPI) — The federal government has offered the provinces $2,500,000 of the National Fitness and Amateur Sport Assistance Fund.

Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith said the assistance, half of the $5 million in the fund, was designed to "stimulate activity at the community level where it will count most."

Monteith also announced in the commons provision of $142,800 to various national organizations with emergency needs.

Each province would receive a flat $50,000 of the fund with the balance shared on a per capita basis. Pending negotiation of these major grants the federal government would offer $250,000 to the provinces for planning and organization grants, with $15,000 each and the remainder apportioned on a population basis.

The grants would be Newfoundland $38,287, Prince Edward Island $60,867, Nova Scotia $126,275, New Brunswick $12,127, Quebec $598,686, Ontario $698,643, Manitoba $145,856, Saskatchewan $145,241, Alberta $190,452, British Columbia $219,568, Yukon Territory $51,538, Northwest Territories $32,460.

The grants would "go a long way towards encouraging the kind of provincial and community participation which is so essential to a well-rounded and effective national effort," Monteith said.

The latest grants to national organizations were:

—Amateur Athletic Union of Canada—$19,500. Includes $1,000 to boxing committee to send a team to United States Amateur Championships; $500 to fencing committee for a team to go to the U.S. nationals, to world championships at Prague, Czechoslovakia and for conducting coaching schools in Vancouver, Saskatoon, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax; $1,500 to the weight-lifting committee to send a team to world championships at Hershey, Penn., and $1,500 to send a team to world championships at Toledo, Ohio.

—Canadian Amateur Ski Association—$5,000 to assist in holding a course for cross-country ski instructors in the summer and fall of 1962.

—Canadian Badminton Association—$1,500 to assist in the staging of a national tournament in Montreal.

—Canadian Canoe Association—$3,500 to help send a team to world championships at Essen, Germany.

—Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen—$15,000 to help in cost of sending a team to world championships in Cairo, Egypt.

—Canadian Ladies' Golf Union—$10,000 to extend junior development program and to help send women golfers to Commonwealth team matches and other international tournaments.

—Canadian Lawn Tennis Association—$18,000 to assist in junior development and to send a team of four men and four women to compete in this year's European tournaments.

—Royal Canadian Golf Association—$5,000 to send a team to 1962 world amateur championships at Iota City, Japan.

—Royal Canadian Legion—$50,000 to help meet expenses of a 10-day coaches clinic at the Ontario Agricultural College to be conducted by Canadian, British and French coaches; and to help the Legion stage national track and field championships.

—Rugby Tours Committee of Canada—$10,000 to send a rugby team to play a series of exhibition games in the British Isles.

—University of Ottawa—$5,000 to assist development of a research reference centre established by UNESCO to gather and disseminate information on physical education, recreation, amateur sport, sports medicine and fitness subjects.

GOALIE TOP PERFORMER . . . IN MINOR HOCKEY

Barry's Score Best

Barry Richardson, who's usual role is to prevent a score, scored the big hit himself Tuesday at the Victoria Minor Hockey Association's presentation night.

The 16-year-old goalkeeper, who played several games with Victoria's junior team, won the association's most outstanding player award. He edged Wayne Anderson in the voting.

Amid all that noisy cannonading by the likes of Bob Clemente, Wally Post, Gino Cimoli and the Yankees' famed "M and M boys," the shots that rang loudest in the major leagues Tuesday were fired by the new Colt 45s and "Two-Gun" Roman Mejias.

The Houston Colts introduced major league baseball to the land of the Alamo and Mejias shot off a double-barreled salute in the form of a pair of three-run homers that made it an easy five-hit, 11-2 conquest for "Bobby Shantz over the Chicago Cubs.

And speaking of shoot-'em-ups, Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron each blasted a home run to help power the world champion New York Yankees to a 7-6 opening victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Whitey Ford started the game for the Yankees and Luis Arroyo saved it in the ninth. As one wise guy put it upon leaving Yankee Stadium, "It was just like watching an old television movie on the late show."

While the homer-hitters decided most of the games on the first big program of the 1962 season, there were three brilliant shutout pitching jobs, by Dick Donovan of the Cleveland Indians, Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants and Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

J. Jones of Toronto and L. Lalond of Scarborough, Ont., placed third in the standings, losing 20 points and being awarded 11.6 test points in their Studebaker.

20 MAKES COMPETE

Two Toronto men, A. Dempsey and P. MacLellan, driving a Volvo, were fourth, losing 34 points. Another Volvo, driven by J. Polivka and Charles Bick of Toronto, was fifth with the loss of 46 points.

Twenty makes of autos, the products of manufacturers of seven countries, are competing in the 4,120-mile event which began in Montreal Saturday and winds up in Vancouver April 14.

Post's three-run homer off Lefty Johnny Podres in the seventh inning broke a 2-2 tie and dearned the Reds their win over the Dodgers.

Friend held the Phils to five hits and walked only one Phils batter. Clemente hit his grand slam off Jim Owens in the third and Don Hoak immediately followed with another homer.

At San Francisco, Marichal hit a two-run single off Spain and struck out 10 batters while pitching his three-hitter. Willie Mays homered in the first of Spain, who was driven out when the Giants scored four runs in the fourth inning.

Shantz, who has not been a regular starter since he won 24 games for the Philadelphia Athletics in 1952, had a shutout until Ernie Banks hit the 29th homer of his career for the Cubs in the seventh.

Calgary Group Leads the Way

It's a visitors' tournament, and it looks like the guests mean to keep it that way. Only one Victoria golfer was left in the running as the field tried to set up this morning for the start of the second round in the 32nd annual Empress golf tournament.

Gordie Greenwood of Royal Colwood was the only district golfer to survive the opening match-play hurdle at Victoria Golf Club Tuesday. Greenwood defeated Seattle veteran Jerry Beeson after being taken to the 20th.

District Loop Returns Law As President

Plans for an all-star game were approved for next season and assent was also given to the formation of a referees' association.

Those bits of business, along with the return of Professor A. E. Law of Victoria College as president, were the high lights of the Esquimalt District Hockey League's meeting Tuesday night.

Councillor James Bryant was named vice-president and Bill Raper was elected secretary-treasurer. Representatives from the four league teams—Army, Navy, Esquimalt Chiefs and College—will complete the directorate.

ESKIMO PRINTS

Arctic's Tornaquis Are 'Foxy' People

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Have you ever heard of the Tornaquis? Tornaquis are spirit people who inhabit the Canadian northland and who make a practice of eating foxes, tail and all, in order to absorb the animal's spirit.

Thus once a Tornaquis is fully possessed by the fox's spirit he's capable of playing the most cunning tricks on earthbound humans, according to the natives of the north.

Tornaquis can be seen in this year's wonderful new collection of Eskimo prints which are on exhibition this week at The Quest handicraft shop.

There are 83 prints in all. They depict many types of Eskimo legendary animals, including an "Avingaluck," a big lemming with a human face.

Cartoonists can learn something from this collection as the Eskimo reveals himself in these prints as having an extraordinary sense of humor.

He also reveals himself as an agent provocateur in the world of art. He treats his animals and birds quite differently than the western artist; and perhaps his vision is nearer the truth.

All his animals have a human quality about them.

'Fair Practices' Drive Opened for Century 21

SEATTLE (AP)—An open letter addressed to all citizens of Washington State, kicked off a "fair practices" campaign Tuesday for the Seattle world's fair season.

The letter carried the signatures of Governor Albert Rosellini, Seattle Mayor Gordon S. Clinton and Joseph E. Gandy, world's fair president. It called for businesses subscribing to the code of fair practices announced several weeks ago to hold the line on prices. A fair practices council was set up here Monday.

"It is our deep hope an overwhelming majority of business firms will sign and accept this pledge," Gandy said.

"The fair can in no way be held responsible for the economic morals of this area, and we have no police power.

Corporation counsel A. C. Van Soelen, the city attorney, urged the city council Monday to declare an emergency so it could be speedily revoke some permits to convert apartment houses to motels.

UNION PICKETS

Housing afloat also is generating controversy. Members of the Seafarer's International Union continued to picket the Catala, a former British Columbia coastal vessel being outfitted as a hotel ship, because it has signed a contract with Shoreline Culinary Unions.

In other fair developments: Officials announced that the space needle will close Sunday and be closed until the fair starts April 21. The monorail from downtown to the fair grounds will continue to run. Both attractions have been open evenings and weekends the past couple of weeks.

Planning Goes Ahead On Chinese Hospital

Planning for an extension to establish a meat inspection area here.

A month's delay was caused by the absence of Saanich and provincial government delegates to the board which represent a large part of the metro-health region.

Dr. Whitbread told board members that a recently opened provincial adult guidance clinic in Victoria will be used by the region as part of a psychiatric service "that will cover all ages and all groups needing the service."

A special follow-up survey of tuberculosis detection programs undertaken last year will be made this summer, concentrating in the Chinatown area where the highest incidence of the illness is found in this area.

Let's Save Trillium Says Botanist

Children have been urged by museum botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski not to pick wild flowers, especially the trillium which has started to bloom in woodlands.

"Whenever a trillium flower is picked the plant dies," he said. "The plant is disappearing because people insist on picking it."

$25 FINE

He warned that the trillium is protected by law and the fine for picking is $25.

The botanist said there is a danger of many wild flowers becoming extinct because of picking.

NEGRO FAMILY QUILTS U.S. FOR RUSSIA

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—William Clark, Negro laborer who sent his 14-year-old daughter to Russia last year because he did not want her going to "Jim Crow schools here," announced today that he and his family plan to join her behind the Iron Curtain.

In a personal letter to President Kennedy, the 44-year-old Clark said he and his wife, Carrie, planned to renounce their U.S. citizenship and take their five young sons to live in Moscow.

For the last seven months the couple's daughter, Hulda, has been attending school in Moscow under an all-expenses-paid scholarship provided by Soviet Premier and Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev.

"I and my family would like very much to join my daughter in the Soviet Union so we, too, can escape Jim Crow injustice," Clark wrote in his letter to the president.

Columbia Basin Works Planned

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. government, concerned over the future of the Columbia River Treaty, Tuesday night announced it will ask Congress to approve $559,000,000 of new power and flood control projects in the Columbia River basin of the U.S. northwest.

While authorities emphasized that these in no way should be considered as alternatives to the Columbia Treaty, they made clear these "supplementary" projects would be tackled first if Canada continues to hold up on ratification of the joint Columbia project.

IN FOUR STATES

One U.S. power expert said the new projects, in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Montana, "would be good, with or without the Columbia."

The administration was merely asking Congress for authorization of funds. Construction may not begin until 1963.

However, if the U.S. proceeds with these "supplementary" works — including the $234,000 Knowles Dam in western Montana — then the urgency of Columbia construction might be lessened slightly, the expert said.

NO PRESSURE PLAY

Earlier Tuesday, Senate majority leader M. J. Mansfield, (Dem., Mont.) disclosed that President Kennedy plans to approve the Knowles and other projects and emphasized in an interview that this should not be considered as an attempt to exert pressure on Canada to speed ratification of the Columbia.

"I want to see the Columbia Treaty implemented but I am opposed to pressure," he said. "It would be the worst possible thing the United States could do."

FATHER'S POCKETBOOK WILL BENEFIT

OTTAWA (CP)—A $50 increase in income tax deductions for dependent children was announced in the budget.

Deductions for children under 16 receiving family allowances will be increased to $300 from $250 and for other dependents, such as children over 16 attending school or university, to $550 from $500.

Finance Minister Fleming said the increase, effective next year in filing 1962 tax returns, will free about 80,000 taxpayers from paying income tax.

The changes mean that a married man with a $5,000 income and two children on family allowances will pay approximately $370 in income tax for 1962, compared with $390 for 1961.

A married man supporting two over-16 high school or university students on a $5,000 income would pay $309 compared with $326.

BLUE PLATE SPECIAL

expand employment, improve Canada's competitive position and to keep abreast of the most advanced scientific methods.

The budget did not implement the tax and tariff measures which Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced last January, would be applied to half the flow of Canadian advertising dollars to American magazines. However, such measures do not necessarily have to be introduced by means of a budget.

No further action was taken, either, on the royal commission proposals of Professor Vincent Bladen for tariff changes on auto parts. They required further examination, Mr. Fleming said to groans from Paul Martin (L.-Essex East), whose riding includes the auto-manufacturing city of Windsor.

The minister announced a one-year extension to Jan. 1, 1964, of the present double depreciation program for new manufacturing investment in depressed areas or for new product manufacture.

Mr. Fleming was at pains to compare the government's position now with what it was in 1957. Twelve of the 2 paragraphs in the minister's speech dealing with tax policy began with the words "since 1957."

Mr. Fleming made no increase in tariffs but said negotiations are continuing on some textile tariff changes recommended in the last year by the tariff board.

Mr. Fleming forecast budget outlays of $6,525,000,000 in 1962-63 or $38,000,000 less than last year. Revenues were estimated at $5,780,000,000 or $8,000,000 more than in 1961-62.

However, termination of the federal-provincial tax-rental agreements will mean a reduction of $279,300,000 in expenditures and of $307,000,000 in revenues.

Furthermore, budget transactions don't include operations of the old age security fund.

Tax Credit for Logging Companies

Branch operations of foreign iron ore companies will be exempt from the special 15-per-cent non-resident tax. Logging companies will get a federal tax credit to offset two-thirds of special Ontario and British Columbia logging taxes, up to a limit.

Exemptions from the 11-per-cent federal sales tax were granted to a few products including fish boxes, lobster traps, honey containers and all sewage and drainage materials.

A 10-per-cent tax will be imposed on premiums paid to foreign business insurers to help channel the insurance buying of foreign-owned corporations to Canadians.

Mr. Fleming forecast budget outlays of $6,525,000,000 in 1962-63 or $38,000,000 less than last year. Revenues were estimated at $5,780,000,000 or $8,000,000 more than in 1961-62.

'Disappointing' Budget, Says CLC

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress said today Finance Minister Fleming's budget speech of Tuesday night "is particularly disappointing because it fails to deal effectively with Canada's number one problem—unemployment."

In a statement issued by Donald Macdonald, CLC secretary-treasurer, during the CLC's national convention here, the congress said:

160-Word-a-Minute Clip Beat Deadline for Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming raced at a rousing few phrases in rattling 160 words a minute through his budget speech to beat a deadline.

He made it—with 11 minutes to spare.

The deadline: To complete his 18,000-word text before the 10 p.m. adjournment hour of the Commons.

Earlier, the Commons was unable to reach agreement for a proposed extension beyond 10 p.m.

Mr. Fleming achieved his feat in one hour and 45 minutes before a partially-filled chamber and packed visitors' galleries.

ATMOSPHERE TENSE

With some 800 persons in the chamber, it was a steamy atmosphere charged with election-eve suspense.

The minister received bursts of applause from his Conservative colleagues whenever he made a telling political point—and his forecast of a seven-per-cent increase in gross national product this year was greeted with loud guffaws from the Liberals.

'Will Help Canada Expand And Increase Employment'

By The Canadian Press

Tax concessions to encourage Canadian production and research were widely welcomed in initial reaction to Tuesday night's budget.

While political opponents generally condemned the budget as inadequate, most business spokesmen appeared content to say "thanks" for what they got.

But some were disappointed—including manufacturers of radios, television sets and record players, who had hoped for relief from the 15-per-cent excise tax they still have to pay, despite removal of the tax from most other products.

F. D. Mathers, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said:

"With steep deficits for and

Other comment included the following:

S. J. Randall, president of General Steel Wares Ltd., and an aggressive exporter: "The incentive for increased sales will prompt industries to increase their efforts to break into foreign markets."

J. D. Campbell, president, Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd.: "This will help Canada expand and help to increase employment."

Ronald W. Todgham, president, Chrysler Corporation of Canada Ltd.: "Anything that is an incentive to industry cannot help but be a stimulation to the economy."

Earl K. Brownridge, president, American Motors (Canada) Ltd. "Our company is on a strong growth pattern and this will be a good thing for us."

These spokesmen were commenting chiefly on budget provisions for reduction in taxes on profits from increased sales; a one-year extension of the program allowing double depreciation for new manufacturing investment in depressed areas or for new-product manufacture; and for deduction from taxable income of 150 per cent of increased expenditures in scientific research.

While the research concession was widely greeted, some firms that already have big research programs gave it a wary look.

No Concessions on Present Program

This is because they won't get concessions on their already large programs, except to the extent that they may increase them; while newcomers to research will benefit.

On the whole, however, the concession was regarded as one that may stimulate Canadian firms to more research, encourage foreign firms to do more research through their Canadian subsidiaries, and help keep Canadian research talent at home.

Hugh Montgomery, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said extension of sales tax exemptions to all sewage and drainage materials will lower the cost of housing.

A long-felt grievance in the oil industry was at least parially met. Canadian companies have complained that they are in a position of disadvantage in comparison with American-owned companies operating in Canada, because of more favorable American tax laws. Under the budget provisions companies and individuals will be allowed for tax purposes to deduct pre-production costs from income for oil or gas wells.

Legislation implementing Premier Bennett's plan was passed at this year's session, but does not come into force until proclaimed.

Gen. Hoffmeister said the two-thirds tax credit:

"It is now up to the provincial government to state what it is prepared to do," he said.

He was also enthusiastic about continued tax concessions for companies conducting research.

ESSENTIAL

"Much research is essential to the development of our industry," he said.

He summed up industrial reaction to the budget this way: "It's very constructive."

Mr. Perrault said the budget was designed to help Canadians in higher income brackets, and said any temporary advantage would be lost with the effect of the heavy deficit.

"Fleming is dreaming and government is drifting," he said.

Mr. Strachan also criticized the government for getting deeper into debt. He said the tax concessions were small and "will do almost nothing for the average Canadian."

Mr. Hahn said it would have been better to reduce the deficit than give the "miserable handouts."

Ireland Taxes Liquor

DUBLIN (AP)—Increased taxes on cigarettes, beer and liquor were provided in a record $210,289,000 national budget presented to the Irish Dail parliament Tuesday.

Confer With Peron

MADRID (UPI)—Three leading Peronist leaders left Sunday night for Argentina after holding top level talks with former Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron.

Mr. Bradshaw, chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce executive council, said the chamber "welcomes the stepped-up program of tax incentives which should act as a stimulant to economic growth thus creating more jobs. Especially welcome is the encouragement to do more scientific research in Canada."

Eric W. Kierans, president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, said the budget will help Canada's manufacturers meet growing world competition in the Canadian market.

The budget clearly recognizes that the Canadian adjustment to the new regional blocs and the liberalized trading environment will impose severe burdens on our manufacturers.

"Since we are committed by international agreement and interests to work for 'freer' trade, the use of tariffs and other protective devices is no longer permissible. The government has neatly solved the problem by providing tax incentives for increased output and encouraging research and development."

PRESSURE FROM U.S.

The surprise omission sparked speculation that the Conservative government, in the face of strenuous representations from the U.S. government and publishers, had changed its mind on its announced plans to clamp down on American publications which have been attracting a large share of Canadian advertising revenue.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker had announced there would be fiscal measures this session, and it had been as-

STIMULUS

"This will certainly act as a stimulus," said Forest Minister Ray Williston. "It will be an encouragement to increase sales in the competitive market."

However, he was less happy about the deal Ottawa is making on logging taxes.

B.C. charges a 10 per cent tax on all logging companies.

Ottawa has now said it will allow a tax credit of two-thirds of this amount. It expects B.C. to absorb the loss of the remaining 150 per cent of revenue.

Mr. Williston said Premier Bennett has offered to share the loss in revenue with Ottawa on the same ratio as the corporation tax revenue is shared—9 to 38.

ONE TO TWO

Ottawa wants to share it one to two.

Mr. Williston said apparently Ottawa has now left it up to B.C. to decide how much of the loss to absorb.

Legislation implementing Premier Bennett's plan was passed at this year's session, but does not come into force until proclaimed.

Gen. Hoffmeister said the two-thirds tax credit:

"It is now up to the provincial government to state what it is prepared to do," he said.

He was also enthusiastic about continued tax concessions for companies conducting research.

Dealing with oil and gas in jects are good. But he added:

"There is growing concern, which the government shares, that the pace of exploration for hydrocarbons is not sufficient to maintain reserves of oil, adequate to meet anticipated demands."

Individuals and companies, including companies outside the petroleum and mining fields would be able to deduct as tax-free expense the pre-production costs of exploration and drilling from their taxable income on oil and gas production.

Another change would permit

No Plans to Peg Canadian Dollar

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's determination to use "a substantial volume of funds" to prevent sudden changes in the Canadian dollar's exchange value was voiced Tuesday night by Finance Minister Fleming.

He also indicated, in his budget speech to the Commons, that prospects aren't bright for any move to peg the dollar at a fixed exchange rate.

The International Monetary Fund, at its last meeting, again expressed hope that Canada "might find it practicable" to peg the rate, Mr. Fleming said.

But the IMF "has not been disposed to press us into any hasty action which might prove to be premature or impossible to maintain."

Mr. Fleming made his statement on the government's exchange rate policy against the background of recent developments which have seen foreign exchange reserves held in the exchange fund, drop by $401,200,000 in five months to $1,709,400,000 March 31.

The government has been selling U.S. dollars from the fund to moderate downward pressures on the Canadian dollar — now worth 94¢ cents in U.S. funds.

TO SLOW PRESSURE

"The government has not hesitated, and will not hesitate in the future, to deploy a substantial volume of funds on one side of the market or the other, in order to prevent sudden or erratic movements in our exchange rate," he said.

Mr. Fleming noted that the exchange fund made "substantial purchases" of U.S. dollars last fall as well as substantial sales this year.

"There may well be similar movements in the future; from time to time our cumulative purchases will no doubt substantially exceed our cumulative sales, and vice versa."

Ever since a post-war attempt to peg the dollar's rate had been abandoned, in 1950, the exchange fund had operated to "restrain and smooth out" rapid movements in the dollar value. It had never been used aggressively to move the exchange rate against market forces.

MISINTERPRETED

Mr. Fleming said his policy statement in his last budget June 20 had been misinterpreted in some quarters to mean Canada was embarking on an aggressive policy to drive the exchange rate down.

In the June budget he said it might be appropriate for the Canadian dollar to move to "a significant discount" and it would be government policy to facilitate such a movement. Accordingly, the exchange fund would be prepared, when necessary, to buy substantial amounts of U.S. dollars on the exchange market.

Mr. Fleming said he explained last year that the "essential means" of reducing the exchange value was through reducing upward pressures exerted by inflows of certain types of foreign capital.

The dollar's exchange value dropped after the June budget as a result of the removal of excessive pressures."

At the same time, the Canadian cost of living had remained "remarkably stable."

PEALS TO BE NEEDED

You get $2.22 per person," said Mrs. Pearson. "And '22' is the name of a well-known headache tablet which the taxpayer of this country is going to need when he is confronted with a deficit of $745,000,000."

Mr. Herridge had no opportunity to speak before the Commons adjournment. But outside the House he said corporations would benefit rather than individuals, "and we all know there are more individuals than corporations."

The budget is good for one per cent of the population only."

EXEMPTIONS CLARIFIED

Little Sales Tax Change

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's sales tax caught up with the electronic age Tuesday night.

Finance Minister Fleming announced that tape recordings and materials used in their manufacture now will be exempt from the 11% tax when they are authorized for use by provincial departments of education in the teaching of the English or French language.

The exemption previously applied only to disc recordings used in teaching the languages.

Mr. Fleming's budget contained few income and excise tax changes affecting the public at large, but clarified exemptions on such things as printed pages for looseleaf books, baling twine when used on or off the farm, barrels and boxes for fish, lobster crates and traps, and scallop bags, and drums or cans for honey.

One provision exempts pipe for sewage and drainage systems, and materials used in their manufacture, from the sales tax whether or not they are bought by municipal councils.

The budget also clarified the law governing motor vehicles, tractors and machines which may be bought free of tax for one use — such as in agriculture — and converted to another use in which they are liable to be taxed.

The new law states that the purchaser, seller, manufacturer, and licensed wholesaler may all be held liable for the tax. But it also says that the tax collector cannot pursue them for more than five years after the machines are diverted from an exempt use to a taxable use.

Budget Background

OTTAWA (CP) — What kind of a budget was it? That depends on which side of the political fence you sit.

"A good budget—an expansionist one," Finance Minister Fleming said.

"Vote now, pay later," was the label of Opposition Leader Pearson in a reference to the estimated deficit.

"Fleming's flop," snapped H. W. Herridge, the CCP-New Democratic Party group's parliamentary leader.

"A beekeepers' budget," came from Robert Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit party.

The political reactions were typical as well as topical.

Mr. Fleming told a post-budget press conference that he is proud of his budget and sees it as an important contribution to economic expansion.

The Liberal leader, speaking in the Commons after the finance minister's speech, noted that the announced benefits to individuals total $40,000,000, which came to $2.22 per head when divided into a population of 18,000,000.

PREMIER, 4 MINISTERS GOING TO WHITEHORSE

Premier Bennett and four B.C. cabinet ministers will go to Whitehorse next month for a conference with Alaska and Yukon government officials.

The conference—third to be held—will be May 17-18.

Travelling with the premier will be Lands, Forests and Water Resources Minister Ray Williston, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Transport Minister Earle Westwood and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Major topic will be transportation.

Discussions will centre around highway links between the U.S. and Alaska and the new Alaska-Prince Rupert ferry service which will open this fall.

Cost: $3,316, Profit: $1.2 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators have presented testimony that the Douglas Aircraft Company made a $1,200,000 profit on a Nike missile contract for doing work valued at $3,316.

The Senate investigations subcommittee singled out the contract—in 1956-57, for 1,032 Nike launcher-loader devices—and indicted Douglas officials to explain the figures.

The figures on the launcher-loaders were offered by the subcommittee's staff accountant after Douglas president Donald W. Douglas Jr. challenged previous testimony that his company had made profits of $63,810,000 on Nike missile contracts since 1952.

Douglas said the firm's actual profits were less than half that, running to what he said was a reasonable $29,800,000.

He contended the subcommittee's accountants mistakenly included $34,010,000 of legitimate business expenses in the profits column.

Radio Hams 'On the Beam' For Lovesick DEW-Liner

BY JOHN MANNING

A love story with all the drama of a best-selling novel—and punctuated with Dan Cupid's arrows in the form of radio beams—has been revealed by Victoria's amateur radio circles.

The romance, conducted almost entirely by amateur radio over 2,500 miles, brought together a Victoria nurse and her DEW line heartthrob.

It began casually when Pat Hanspiker and Fred Galbraith went out on a date in Victoria while Fred was on leave from an Arctic outpost. The date lasted but two hours with Fred not even bothering to get Pat's address or phone number.

Back at his DEW line post

several hundred miles north of the Arctic Circle he had second thoughts about Pat.

But how was he, from the snowbound wastes, to contact a Victoria girl he hardly knew?

The amateur radio station operated by American service personnel on the post was pressed into service.

TRACKED HER DOWN

The northern "hams" contacted a Victoria amateur station, operated by Roy Parrett and his wife Maude, at 740 Cowper Street. With just the girl's name and the knowledge that she worked at St. Joseph's Hospital, the couple tracked Pat down and reunited her with Galbraith via radio.

It wasn't easy. Fred had to talk over a local radio circuit to reach the base ham station which meant there were three operators involved in every transmission.

Regulations permit only one-way traffic on radio-telephone hookups. But, in spite of everything, the Parrets and the American hams finally arranged a direct phone hookup. It was the first of many transmissions.

PROPOSED TO HER

"Their romance became warmer and warmer," said Parrett, and finally he proposed to her right over the air.

Pat accepted.

"They tried to pick out their furniture by radio but couldn't agree on what they wanted," said Mr. Parrett. "She wanted Danish furniture and he didn't like it."

The young couple also disagreed on where they would get married. Pat wanted Victoria and Fred wanted Edmonton.

"Finally they quarreled," said Mr. Parrett, "and just at the crucial moment I lost contact due to a big northern light display. For three nights he tried to get hold of her again but every time I phoned she'd just hang up."

Three-Generation Living Has Its Good Points, Too

Here is the fourth of 12 articles from the book, "A Brighter Later Life," by Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs and social problems.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

Put three generations under one roof and it won't be long before they've blown the roof off. That's how good many people feel.

And in many cases they are un doobly right.

There are thousands of families where the worst route to harmony, and the quickest to discord, would be to ask aging parents to move into the house with a couple and their children.

But there are opposite situations, too—and all ranges and shades in between. There are many families living in joyous "togetherness" with Grandma and Grandpa under the same roof.

Suppose we look for moment at some of the special pitfalls as well as some of the special benefits of three generation living.

Some Pitfalls

Dr. W. W. Bauer, while serving as director of health education for the American Medical Association, listed some of the pitfalls as follows:

1. Some members of the grandparents' generation have different amusements, manners, and morals from the youth of today. The problems which this can pose in the home are fairly obvious.

2. Grandfathers and grandmothers almost inevitably tend to overindulge, or to "spoil," the grandchildren in the home. Grandmothers and grandfathers have more time than do parents. They devote this time to the children, not always with good judgment.

3. Some grandparents even tend to upset the disciplinary routine of the child by standing between the child and just and proper punishment, preventing the child from observing proper hours of bed-time and nap-time, or interfering in feeding problems.

4. Sometimes there develops competition between a grandparent and the parents for the affection of the child, with the grandparents having all the advantage because they can indulge the child without having the responsibilities of discipline and upbringing which devolve upon the parent.

Some Benefits

Now some of the benefits. Edith G. Neisser, formerly of the Association for Family Living, lists these advantages of having grandma or grandpa, or both, in the family home:

1. The older generation makes a contribution in widening the horizon of a child's mind as well as his feelings. The three-year-old likes stories about himself as a baby. The five-year-old delights hearing about his parents when they were small.

2. A mother with several small children can barely manage the cooking, cleaning and mothering she is called upon to do in the course of each 24 hours. No automatic machinery (all of the evidence about modern household gadgetry notwithstanding) can take the place of an extra pair of hands in an emergency, and that extra pair of hands is likely to be grandma's.

3. Grandparents are also invaluable for the love, the security, the flexibility, and the sense of belonging they can bring to their grandchildren. The practical assistance as well as the moral support they can provide to their own-grown children are a part of their contribution, too.

Sense of Security

4. Grandparents also help a child's emotional development by widening the circle in which children feel at home. The first thing a baby learns—if he is a fortunate baby or toddler who has a chance to discover that grandma's arms (or grandpa's) can be just as comforting as mother's. This astonishing discovery gives him courage to trust other people, too, and lays the foundation for a sense of security.

The pitfalls, once spotted, can be avoided. The benefits, once discovered, can be reaped. Following are some suggestions:

tions, not only for making three-generation living work, but for making it work best!

From real life, here are some of the ways in which an elderly widow, whom we'll call Mrs. Rogers, made a success of living with her son and daughter-in-law.

What She Did

Jim, her son, and his wife, Alice, had two children of their own and a full, busy household. Mrs. Rogers moved in with them, not out of choice, but because she had no alternative after the death of her husband.

Her eyes were wide open.

She had been given all the customary warnings about the agonies of living with married children. And so Mrs. Rogers set out deliberately to bring harmony rather than discord into her new home. She recognized that there were bound to be some difficulties, but she also recognized that there was much she could do by her own attitude and actions to lubricate the interplay of human emotions.

Here are some of the steps she took:

Because Jim and Alice's house was small, with no extra bedroom, Mrs. Rogers had to sleep in the living room. She closed the living-room door before retiring, and, to insure the privacy of her son and his wife, she always knocked on that door before re-entering the rest of the house. She stayed in bed in the morning until the younger couple and their children had gotten up, dressed, and had their respective turns at washing and tooth-brushing in the single bathroom.

Mrs. Rogers conformed diligently to her daughter-in-law's decisions about the children. Often she wanted to buy something special for them—and once she did without consulting Alice, later noting that Alice was displeased. On thinking it over, Mrs. Rogers concluded that her daughter-in-law had a right to object, since raising the children was her own department and her own responsibility. After that, when grandma was moved to buy the youngsters a present, she made a point of talking it over first with their mother.

Mrs. Rogers dedicated herself to impartiality in her love for Alice and Jim. She leaned over backwards to make it clear that her love for Alice was no less because Alice was an "in-law."

Felt 'Left Out'

"Soon after I came to live with Jim and Alice," Mrs. Rogers recalled, "a master arose which I wanted to discuss privately with Jim. Because the house was so small, I was forced to say, 'Alice, would you mind if I spoke to Jim alone?'

"Of course not," she answered. But I knew that she did mind. I had made her feel 'left out,' and I was sorry for it. I resolved never to repeat that mistake. And after

U.S. Steel Price Hiked $6 a Ton

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The giant U.S. Steel Corporation, a leader in one of the basic United States industries, increased its prices today.

The price raise, announced Tuesday a few hours before it took effect, added an average of $6 to the cost of a ton of steel, which has been selling for a little more than $150.

What effect it will have on the prices of other steel firms was not immediately determined. But U.S. Steel, biggest producer, customarily sets the price pattern for the rest of the industry.

The increase came less than a week after U.S. Steel and 10 other big firms signed new two-year labor contracts with the United Steelworkers to take effect July 1.

Those pacts, granting a 10-cents-an-hour package increase to each basic steelworker, were hailed by President Kennedy as responsible and non-inflationary, adhering to the president's plea for an early, non-inflationary steel settlement.

BLAMES COST SQUEEZE

President Leslie B. Worthington of U.S. Steel said the price increase was necessary because of a continuing cost-price squeeze on profits since 1958.

He said these costs have continued to rise without even considering higher labor costs after July 1 under the new contracts.

Worthington described the price increase as modest, amounting to about 3.5 per cent.

President Kennedy, however, was reported to have taken a dim view of the increase. The president himself had no immediate comment, but one of his aides said the president would issue "a very strong statement against the price boost."

David J. McDonald, United

Steelworkers' president, said he price increase, and will review the reported action of U.S. Steel immediately.

President Thomas F. Patton of Republic Steel responded to the announcement by saying "Republic certainly needs a

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1962—PAGE 19

MONTE ROBERTS

REV. G. R. EASTER
... Ontario appointment

Easter Farewell For Easter

Rev. G. R. Easter, minister at First Baptist Church here for nearly 17 years, will preach his last sermon there on Easter Sunday evening.

He has accepted an appointment to First Baptist Church, Preston, Ont., and will leave for Preston with Mrs. Easter soon after the farewell service.

We are leaving Victoria with many regrets," he said, "but one of the consolations is that we shall be living near our daughter, Mrs. Eric Davis, at Kitchener, Ontario."

Mrs. Davis and her brother, John Easter, both graduated from Victoria High School. John is now teaching at Brandon, Man., where his father was minister of First Baptist Church before he came to Victoria in 1945.

Mr. Easter's successor has not yet been named.

I especially wish to thank the handful of thoughtful constituents who sympathized with me because of the apparent danger that I might be connected with a winning crusade.

It would, indeed, be a pity to break an unbroken 10-year record of losing crusades.

But I think I will manage to bear up if the city fathers, in their wisdom, decided that Foul Bay Road shall remain inviolate.

And, of course there were the two others who adroitly changed the coupon so it read: I DO NOT strongly oppose, etc. . . .

It appears Victoria isn't the only area where citizens are ever ready to spring to the defence of a name.

Witness this editorial in the Portland Oregonian of April 6:

The good citizens of Victoria, B.C., who are fighting a proposed prettifying-up of the name of Foul Bay Road, have all the right on their side. There has been altogether too much tampering already with the robust names selected by pioneers who wouldn't have been caught dead in a Prettyville.

In Oregon, for example, latter-day citizens have been busy over the years replacing the picturesque place-names of the past with what place-name compiler Lewis A. (Tam) McArthur called "the gutless expressions of today." Dusty, in Benton County, became Bellfountain. The name of Jackass Creek, in Klamath County, was primly shortened to Jack Creek, although there are a dozen other Jack Creeks in the state. Over in Harney County, the post office of Mule was abandoned despite the objections of its best-known patron, John Hoss.

Praises be, there are a few of the old names left, although they could be offensive to the fastidious souls who name new subdivisions. No meddling, please, with Mugwump Lake, Shirtail Gulch, Fourbit Creek, Whisky Run, Mad Creek, Louse Creek, Chickenhouse Gulch, Bloody Run, or any other hearty Oregon names dating from an era of candor in place-names.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association will meet in the municipal hall on Thursday at 8 p.m. to hear debates on pigeons, local book-borrowing facilities and the proposed marina. The meeting is open to the public and membership cards will be available for $1.

Inspections, Races for Bike Safety Week

By IAIN HUNTER

Next week, April 16 to 22, is Bicycle Safety Week. On Tuesday, bicycles owned by pupils from local schools will undergo inspection in preparation for road races at Beacon Hill Park the following Saturday.

The week's activities will be sponsored by the Victoria Neon Optimist Club.

Inspection of machines will be held on Tuesday from 6 to 8 p.m. at South Park. Sir James Douglas, Margaret Jenkins, Oaklands, George Jay, North Ward and Victoria West schools.

SAFETY CODE

At the schools, copies of the Bicycle Safety Code will be issued to all prospective participants. Each machine will be inspected to see that it suits the rider and that brakes, wheels, frames and other accessories are in working order.

If the cycles do not pass

the safety test, forms will be sent to the parents concerned recommending repairs and offering further inspection in order to qualify the machine for the race.

Riding skill also will be tested, including manoeuvrability, balance and braking.

Following an examination to see that riders know proper signals and riding technique, Safety Club membership cards will be issued.

qualifying the riders for Saturday's race.

Times sports editor Doug Peden, a former six-day bicycle racer, will give the opening address on Saturday. Prizes will be presented.

Eight Frigates To Be Ordered

Big Boost Seen For B.C. Yards

A further shot in the arm for B.C.'s already booming shipyards was forecast in Ottawa today with the announcement of a $270,000,000 naval expansion program.

Included are eight frigates, to be built at a cost of about $30,000,000 each.

In making the announcement in the House of Commons, Defence Minister Douglas Harkness did not specify where the new ships would be built, but past practice has been to spread construction among the major yards, including Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrow Ltd., Victoria and Burrard Dry Dock, Vancouver.

SUBSIDY HELPED

The three yards are well on their way out of a depressed period, aided in part by the federal government's 40 per cent ship building subsidy.

In addition to the frigates, Mr. Harkness said three submarines would be purchased from the Royal Navy, at about $10,000,000 each.

The surface ships will be known as "general purpose frigates," Times correspondent Alex Young reported from Ottawa.

The building program is expected to take about six years to complete. The first warship will be laid down late next year, Harkness said, and the others will follow progressively.

ALL GET CHANCE

Navy spokesman said all yards would have an opportunity to bid on the ships, with the Canadian Maritime Commission recommending where they should be built.

The frigates will be slightly larger than the present destroyer escorts, and will perform essentially the same function.

"These ships will replace existing ships as they reach the end of their useful lives in the next few years," he said.

The submarines will be of the Oberon class, built in Britain for the Royal Navy. Delivery of the first sub is expected sometime next year, following completion of negotiations with the British government.

Trustee Offers To Resign

John S. Williams, Sooke School Board chairman and veteran trustee, tendered his resignation at a regular meeting of the board Tuesday night.

Reason was that he "did not have the support of the board on reorganization of Belmont Senior Secondary School and Elizabeth Fisher Junior Secondary School."

Although the board was divided on the subject, it closed ranks in supporting a motion that the resignation be delayed by being tabled until the next board meeting.

DIVIDING PLAN

A problem facing the board at present is the division of the two schools, which at present share certain facilities. Mr. Williams feels it can be done under the existing system, which has one senior principal for both schools and a vice-principal at each. Opposing view is to have both a principal and vice-principal at each school.

Mr. Williams has spent the last 11 years on the board, and three of them as chairman. He was re-appointed as a trustee by the education minister in December when there were not enough candidates for election.

Overnight Ride To Durrance This Weekend

Colwood Trail Riders will hold an overnight ride to Durrance Lake cabin this weekend.

It will be open to all horsemen and horsewomen in the area.

Riders will meet at 1933 Trans-Canada Highway, opposite Thetis Lake Trailer Park, Saturday at 10 a.m., and return to the starting point about mid-afternoon on Sunday.

Each rider will provide his own sleeping bag, food, and grain for his horse, but hay will be supplied by Colwood Trail Riders. Provisions must be at the starting point before Friday for transport to Durrance Lake by truck.

A reliable chaperone will take part in the event.

Don Fitzpatrick, at GR 9-3814, will provide further information.

Sooke RCMP said they took three transistor radios of a total value of $180; a quantity of clothing worth about $500 to $600 and 30 cartons of cigarettes.

Heart Attack Claims City Union Official

Victor Howard Midgley, 48, who three years ago rejected pleas from his family to give up his union activities for reasons of health, died in harness.

He was a vice-president of Victoria Labor Council, an official of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and had been active in uniting what used to be the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor into the present national organization.

It was after a heart attack a few years ago that his family and friends tried to have him reduce the pace of his union activities, but he would have none of it.

He was taken to Vancouver "Vic" Midgley General Hospital where he died Tuesday night at 9.

Mr. Midgley, a carpenter by trade, was international representative here for the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners from 1946 to the time of his death.

Survivors are the widow, Freda, at home, 2921 Ilene Terrace; two sons, Reginald and Richard, and two daughters, Maureen and Sandra, all of Victoria; three grandchildren and a brother and a sister.

Funeral will be held at McCall's Saturday at 11 a.m.

"He was a real friend and a dedicated labor man," said E. T. Staley, vice-president of Victoria Labor Council. "He will be greatly missed."

Said Ald. A. W. Toone, council secretary-treasurer: "Vic Midgley was a consistently hard worker in the trade union movement. This will come as a great blow to the people of Victoria."

Beach Time Is Fun Time With These Summer Toys

By PENNY SAVER

Looking forward to fun at the beach this summer? I think most of us are, and between dousings with sun tan lotion and basking in the sun, there will be plenty of time for romancing.

Picture yourself on a surf board, riding the waves. Sounds like fun, doesn't it? Even if you do see yourself falling in and getting a dunking.

Why just picture it when you can actually be doing it?

Expanded polystyrene surf boards are on the Victoria market now and they're light, durable and clean. They won't deflate or mildew. Measuring between three and four feet long, they sell for $5.95. Why not invest in one and try your luck?

For youngsters there are kick boards made of the same material and measuring 17 inches long. One end is grooved for easier holding. Price? Only $1.59.

Swimmers in training use this type of board for practice, to strengthen their legs and their kick. Besides this, most youngsters could think of many ways to have fun with them.

A day at the beach isn't complete without a game of "catch" with a beach ball.

Once I've seen have a check pattern in mixed colors of orange, red, blue, green, yellow and white. They're non toxic and sanitary and when inflated they measure 20 inches.

Little fellows who confine their water sports to paddling along the shore will love an assortment of boats to command.

In one package that sells for 35 cents, there's a sailboat, a boat and a boat, all made of plastic.

Then, of course, who can build the finest sand castle on the entire beach without a sturdy, little plastic pail and shovel? Available in colors of pink, red, blue and green, pails come with white handles, complete with shovel, for 25 cents.

Beginning plans now for weekends at the beach? Call me if you're wondering where to find any of these items. Penny, EV 2-3131.

Look, Ladies, at All These Lovely Beauty Products

The cosmetic industry today is a business of near miracles. There seems to be a product for every feminine need in the art of beauty care and self-enhancement. It's a far cry from the days when there was a comparative limited selection.

There are hormone creams which aid the aging complexion. Then there are the moisturizing creams which can be used underneath your regular make-up. These are especially helpful to the woman who has a very dry skin.

There is a lip rouge in a very slender stick. This eliminates the need for a lip brush since you can use it to outline the shape of your lips and then fill in with the same stick.

There is a cream stick with which to cover up blemishes such as pimples and scars. This is useful in covering dark circles and other complexion discolorations. It also minimizes shadows from deep lines.

There is the product which

Women Go Formal, Men Renegade

WASHINGTON (CP)—Stuffed pheasant complete with feathers, whole hams and huge baskets of fruit formed part of a sumptuous buffet as President Kennedy and his beautifully-gowned wife entertained about 1,200 guests at the annual White House reception for Congress.

Striking an informal note, Kennedy ditched the usual wing-collar approach and, polling his congressional advisers, drew agreement Tuesday night that the black tie is just the thing for a spring executive mansion gathering.

While the male guests clung to their informality, amid the soft music of a marine band, their wives formed a stunning fashion display led by Mrs. Kennedy. She wore a heavy white satin full-length gown created by Givenchy, her favorite Paris designer. The bodice was embroidered with flowers and figures in varied colors.

Mrs. Dean Rusk, wife of the state secretary, wore a two-piece French brocade. Mrs. Robert Kennedy, wife of the attorney-general, appeared in a pale green dress of heavy embroidered satin. Mrs. Robert McNamara, wife of the defence secretary, was in white satin set off by a black satin stole.

There was no formal reception line. The Kennedys did not profit by cleansing creams as well as the oilier creams for lubrication. The oily skin does not require cream. However, as a woman grows older the natural oil in her skin decreases. Therefore, most women should use lubricating creams or oil from early middle age on, even before then, if the complexion is dry. This makes a tremendous difference in the youthfulness of the epidermis.

The president seemed fatigued after a hard day at the office, frequently mopping his brow. In the crowded, humid reception rooms, Mrs. Kennedy left after 50 minutes, anxious to rest up for a taxing schedule for the rest of the week, including the state visit of the Shah of Iran.

If you do not need creams over the entire face, you are almost certain to profit by the use of an eye cream. This is patted about the eyes before going to sleep at night.

The list goes on and on. Of course, the primary needs of the complexion are regular cleansing and lubrication, but it is fun and also flattering to use some of the special products.

Soap and water are best for the normal or oily skin, while the very dry complexion will contain oils similar to the ones naturally found in our skin. This is softening to the epidermis.

Eye make-up has become an art. Women who never used any of these beautifiers before are taking advantage of the lift they give the face. Eyeshadow comes in all shades. Eyeliners make the eyes look larger, the lashes thicker, and the eyes more expressive.

Eye make-up has become an art. Women who never used any of these beautifiers before are taking advantage of the lift they give the face. Eyeshadow comes in all shades. Eyeliners make the eyes look larger, the lashes thicker, and the eyes more expressive.

The list goes on and on. Of course, the primary needs of the complexion are regular cleansing and lubrication, but it is fun and also flattering to use some of the special products.

Soap and water are best for the normal or oily skin, while the very dry complexion will

Local Nurse Makes Hawaii Her Home

By PAT DUFOUR

Hardly had the graduating ceremonies been completed for the 1960 nursing class of St. Joseph's Hospital than Miss Arlene Reynolds and fellow graduate, Miss Eleanor Sparling, New Westminster, packed their bags and headed for the Hawaiian Islands. And they've been there ever since!

Miss Reynolds arrived in Victoria last weekend to spend a month's holiday with her mother, Mrs. C. Reynolds, but once the month is up—she's off again for an indefinite stay in the sunny isles.

She and her friend are on the staff of the Leahi Hospital in Honolulu where 300 patients are treated for tuberculosis.

One hardly connects the Hawaiian Islands with this disease but she explains that it's quite prevalent, especially among the Japanese.

The hospital attracts many Canadian nurses. Of the staff of 60, more than half are Caucasian with about 25 to 30 hailing from the land of the maple leaf.

The nurses "live in" because outside accommodation is expensive but as Arlene enthuses, "We have quarters that rival those of the luxury hotels—we each have our own room and all of them are bordered by lanais (sun decks) where we can soak up the sun when off duty."

Lack of prejudice is one of the islands' main attractions for this nurse. "They really are one happy family. Race or color means absolutely nothing. Haolis, (Hawaiian word for white people) Japanese, Chinese, Hawaiians and part, Hawaiians are able to mix in a casual, easy manner. It's marvellous!"

One of Arlene's friends, Mrs. Nancy Chung, is a hospital aide and a member of the select Royal Society of Hawaii.

"Membership is limited because, to qualify, you must be pure or more than half Hawaiian and able to trace your ancestry to one of the royal families.

After 15 months in the Hawaiian Islands, Miss Arlene Reynolds enjoys wearing the long fitted hula muu which she has learned to love. Flower lei and her ivory necklace and bracelet carved to resemble pikaki flower are also from Hawaii.

"Nancy's children will never be able to belong because she married a Korean and they will be less than half Hawaiian."

Rice is a vegetable that Arlene never had time for before she hit Hawaiian shores but as she puts it, "I'm a real rice addict now—only the only time I touch potatoes is when we have steak."

Two of her favorite dishes are mahi mahi and teriyaki steak. The former is a fish that resembles cod while the latter is "out of this world"—being thinly-cut steak that is soaked in a sauce that's rich with ginger, garlic and other spices for anywhere from half an hour to half a day.

Naturally, Arlene and her friends have mastered the art of hula dancing. "We took lessons in the night classes organized in public schools."

However, even the Hawaiians have succumbed to the Twist. "Stirling Mossman, the star of the Barefoot Bar in Queen Surf, started the rage and you'll find it played at most of the night clubs now."

As far as the language problem's concerned — there isn't one.

You soon learn enough pidgin English to get by and gradually you find yourself thinking in part English-part Hawaiian."

Proceeds will be used to renew furnishings in the club's ward at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The afternoon presentation was opened by Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and honorary president of the club. In the evening Mayor R. B. Wilson officiated.

Club president, Dr. Olga Jardine, introduced both Mrs. Pearkes and Mayor Wilson.

Luncheon

Tea tables were centred with tiny plastic umbrellas and miniature pastel-toned flowers at a luncheon party given by the Native Daughters of British Columbia, Victoria Post No. 3, in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room. Daffodil decorated other tables.

Guests were greeted by chief factor, Mrs. C. Baxter. General convener was Mrs. B. Brown.

Choir Feted

Members of the Metropolitan United Church choir were feted at two parties recently. Dr. Rodger Manning was host when 65 members and friends attended a reception in the ladies' parlor of the church. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. F. E. H. James and Rev. E. Laura Butler. The host was thanked by Mr. Keith Henderson, choir president. The choir were guests when Rev. and Mrs. James entertained at a social evening in their Briar Place home. Ivan Green, past president, thanked the hosts.

Need Taggers

An appeal for taggers has been made by Junior Auxiliary to the British Columbia Protestant Orphanage who will be holding a tag day next Saturday. Would-be taggers should phone Mrs. R. J. Dempster, GR 7-2694, or Mrs. W. Wigley, GR 8-6725.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Co-Operative Living!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I live in an adjacent shift from his wife. He apartment building where seems to have a lot of time on people are very friendly. It's his hands and likes to visit the kind of place where they with me. (I am married and just walk in if your door isn't open.) This man locked and nobody thinks a loves to tell me about his "per-thing of it. There is a man's affair" with other living here who works a different women. I can't figure out whether he is asking me for advice or what. I know his wife and like her. I would rather not hear all this stuff. How can I cut him off without insulting him?

STUMPED BUT GOOD. DEAR STUMPED: Go ahead and insult him. Tell him you are not interested in his private affairs, don't approve of his behavior, and do not want to hear about it. Men who behave this way usually have plans for their listeners. And lock your door!

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about a dear friend of mine. She was married at 18, has been married for three years and has had three babies already. Her husband says he would love to have a baby every year but, Abby, how long can she keep that up?

She is a lovely girl, but she has no help with her house or the babies and it is making an old woman out of her before her time. What should she do? This is between you and me.

A DEAR FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND: You are mistaken. It is between your friend and her husband.

DEAR ABBY: If there is a reader somewhere who has caught her husband being unfaithful and has forgiven him and has since had a happy marriage, would you please ask her to tell her story? I need it so desperately now.

She doesn't have to sign my name.

HURT.

DEAR ABBY: Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — They're saying that Ethel Merman and a surprise for her.
The anti-Liz Taylor mail is starting to pour in on the columnists, and it's rough. Some is vicious. The theme is that Liz's pictures should be boycotted because of her marrying habits. If it gets rough enough on her, then a strange thing'll happen: she'll come under such heavy attack that she'll become the underdog, and therefore will receive the sympathy of some people.
Crazy world!

Groucho Marx, who likes to needle close friends as well as strangers, listened to songwriter Harry Ruby, an intimate, explain something complicated. "Not to listen to Ruby," Groucho said, "is a liberal education."

Introducing Marilyn Monroe's biggest threat (size 42), Gaslight Gal Eileen Elliot, who's stopping traffic all over town and nominated by the American Society of Girl Watchers as "most watchable" . . . The Lindsay Crosbys are having difficulties; Lindsay's in L.A. and Barbara's here.

Eddie Fisher's broke, they say. I can't believe it, no matter how much he gave to Debbie R. in the first settlement. Anyway, he's good for $500,000 a year if he works and takes advantage of his singing talent . . . Rumor in Europe: that Gary Cooper's widow found a cheque for $480,000 for his last movie, in a box of letters he was holding out as a surprise for her.

MONUMENT TO WINTER—Airport employees at Traverse City, Mich., kept adding more pipe to an always-trickling water outlet all winter long. By spring, their project had turned into a towering mass of rock-hard ice 50 feet high.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy answers questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions get entries in a drawing for a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Louise Brigo, age 10, Allentown, Penna., for her question:

How Is Moss Formed?

Moss is a living plant and ferny fronds, or ruffles with leafy frills. Some look like a fat pincushion of vivid green velvet.

A carpet of moss may seem to bear daisies or green roses, apples or little peapods. But a moss plant has no true flowers or seeds. The parent plants provide a sperm cell and an egg cell for each of their children. The sperm and egg cell merge to form a cell from which the new plant grows—however, the young moss plant develops through two separate stages.

One of the parent moss plants grows a fine green stem, topped with a package of egg cells. The other grows a fine green stem topped with a package of sperm cells. Some dewy morning, when the moss is wet and slippery, the sperm cells break free. Each has a fine hair which it uses to swim over to the egg cells. A sperm cell merges with an egg cell and fertilizes it.

There are thousands of different mosses, each like a miniature garden. Some look like fairy bushes and some like baby vines. Some stand like midget trees in a crowded forest, topped with tassels and swamps.

The moss spores are small enough to float and drift in the air and the breezes carry them far from home. Some of them drift far out to sea. A few, a very few, of the tiny spores will finally land on the ground where they can grow. Each of these lucky spores will settle on a damp, shady spot. Soon it will spread into a velvet carpet, just like its parents.

The young plant anchors itself to the soil with little threads called rhizoids. These rhizoids drink up moisture with dissolved minerals from the soil, but the experts say that they are not true roots.

The velvet moss has no proper roots, flowers or seeds.

Yet hundreds of millions of years ago it was one of the first plants to leave the sea for life on the land.

Rootlets Grow Into Parent

The fertilized cell now grows rootlets down into the mossy parent which produced the egg cells. It grows a fine stalk, topped with a capsule of spores. These tiny seedlets are finer than fine dust and their miniature box is fitted with a neat lid. When at last the spores are ripe, the lid pops open and off blow the spores on the breezes, like a cloud of misty powder.

V.I. ROUNDUP

IWA Offers Aid If Rink Bigger

PORT ALBERNI — Local 1-85 of the IWA has offered to assist in promoting a $250,000 ice rink bylaw if the city will build a bigger and better rink.

Present plans call for six curling sheets, a skating area 85 by 170 feet, and seating for 500 spectators. The union feels there should be more accommodation, and an ice surface big enough for regulation hockey.

Added to the $250,000 would be $68,450 insurance paid following burning of the curling club rink Feb. 17.

ALBERNI — About 60 persons attended a public meeting to hear Mayor Fred Bishop discuss the $600,000 sewer bylaw which will be presented to ratepayers here Saturday for the third time.

Warning that Alberni would become "a second-class city" without such a system, he said only persons using the system would pay for it.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The parents of an injured logger made a hurried flight from Holland and were able to reach his bedside before he died in hospital here Monday night.

Victim was Herbert Van Duyne, 28, who suffered head injuries in an accident Friday at Tahsis Logging Co. operations.

An inquest was scheduled to open today, then be adjourned to next week to hear evidence from witnesses.

COURTENAY — A $930,000 school building bylaw expected to meet the needs of School District 71 for the next three to four years will be voted on in the district Saturday.

It will include new elementary schools at Courtenay and Comox, a new junior secondary school at Cumberland, and additions to other schools in the district.

CROFTON — Sewage disposal methods in this area were condemned this week by sanitary inspector Douglas Roe in a letter sent to Crofton Ratepayers' Association.

It was read at the annual meeting of the association during discussion of a proposed sewer bylaw.

Mr. Roe said an over-all sewer system is the only way Crofton will solve its sewage problem.

Reeve Don Morton informed the meeting a sewer plan is being drafted by North Cowichan municipal engineer and when ready would be made known to the association.

Members elected Ed Alexander as president and Stan Baker as secretary-treasurer.

Directors are J. H. Worsley, L. R. Taylor and William G. Davis.

GANGES — "Michael," a dachshund owned by Miss Mary Harrison, won the Willingdon Cup and a special trophy as the highest-scoring local dog participating in Salt Spring Island Dog Obedience Club spring trials in Mahon Hall.

Miss Renee Dobson's "Keta" was awarded a qualifying ribbon as a close contender for top honors.

Thirty dogs from Nanaimo, Duncan, Victoria, Saanich and Salt Spring took part in the trials, judged by Dr. E. Johnson, Maple Bay.

A new class in the tracking section will be started by the local club Friday at 7 p.m. in Central Hall. W. P. Evans is club president.

GANGES — A special film showing the consecration of the 100th Archbishop of Canterbury will be shown at St. George's Anglican Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. as part of the regular service.

Japanese Absolved In Salmon Decline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two G. R. Clark said Canadians are gravely concerned at the possibility of Japanese and Russian trawling fleets moving into the halibut area south of the Aleutians at present fished by Canadian and U.S. vessels.

He said in reply to representation by the Canadian government, the USSR replied Soviet fleets planned only exploratory fishing south of the Aleutians at present.

The Japanese agreed to abstain from fishing for halibut in the area but maintained their right to fish for bottom fish in the area.

Certainly not enough they said, to account for the declines in chum, pink and sockeye.

The independent United Fisherman and Allied Workers' Union has long claimed Japanese mother ships operating west of the international Pacific treaty waters were catching vast quantities of B.C. fish.

MUCH INTERMINGLING Dr. Needler said there is considerable mingling of Asiatic and American stocks of salmon on both sides of the treaty line but practically all such North American fish come from Bristol Bay in south-western Alaska.

SIDNEY DRIVER WINS

Briefcase Full of Cab Permits Called 'Absurd' by Magistrate

Charge against a Sidney taxi driver of carrying passengers in the city without having a permit was dismissed by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court Tuesday on the grounds it was "absurd."

Reginald Stanley Davis, 9984 Third Street, Sidney, was charged under a section of the Motor Vehicle Act after he brought two passengers into Victoria from Patricia Bay Airport on Jan. 30.

Magistrate Ostler said if the Crown's interpretation of the section was correct a taxi driver would have to have four different permits to drive passengers from Sidney to Victoria.

BRIEFCASE FULL

"If he wanted to go to the north of Vancouver Island a taxi driver would have to have a briefcase full of permits," he said.

"In fact to be completely safe from prosecution he would have to get permits from municipalities throughout the province."

He ruled a taxi driver needs only a permit from the chief of police in his own municipality. Davis had such a permit.

"If the Crown's contention is correct it would create confusion and utter absurdity."

This section was devised for the protection of the public not for the harassment of private citizens in the lawful pursuit of their business," he said.

Davis was represented by lawyer Jack Gatehouse.

It's Incredible But True— He's Same Mischa Elman

PETER MATTHEWS

It is almost incredible that the Mischa Elman who charmed a near capacity audience at the Royal Theatre Tuesday night, is the same man who made his first public appearance with a violin in 1899.

In 1904 he made his professional debut and won instant acclaim as an infant prodigy, a classification under which he was to perform, embarrassingly well, into his teens, in all the world's great concert halls.

On Tuesday night, he was, indeed prodigious, playing with what appeared to be consum-mate ease, a formidable program that included two sonatas, a concerto and a group of incidental works.

To those who have listened to Elman through the years—and there were many at the Royal Tuesday night who can remember him from post First World War years—he betrayed little perceptible diminution in his sensitive interpretative powers, masterful technique and rich beauty of tone.

In the opening Handel Sonata in E major the allegro was marked by delicate precision and the largo by warmth and balanced sostenuto passages.

TENDERNESS

To the Brahms Sonata in G major he brought out emotional highlights in the vivace, appealing tenderness in the taxing double-stopping of the adagio heading the stirring development of a series of climaxes in the final allegro movement.

The Mozart Concerto No. 4, the major work on the program, afforded the performer the opportunity to display the full scope of his powers—the classical precision and clarity of the melodic line and the true Mozartian delicacy.

To it he added a long intricate cadenza, an undisguised showpiece which evoked applause, approaching an ovation,

GENEROUS ENCORES

Turning to a totally different genre in shorter works after the intermission, Elman and his worthy accompanist, Joseph Seigar, opened with Chausson's Poème with its hauntingly beautiful solo passages for both instruments in which the interpretive powers of both performers were displayed with artistry.

The Paganini-Elman Caprice No. 24 produced a feast of brilliance and technique and was received with an enthusiasm that brought what must have been a very tired septuagenarian back for two generous encores.

Both girls came from Port-land with their teacher, Miss Nellie Tholen, herself a successful and popular adjudicator here on more than one previous occasion, and a keen supporter of the Victoria festival.

As adjudicators, both Mr. Morrison, who comes from the Royal College of Music, London, England, and Sidney Bryans, formerly of Dublin and London, now of Winnipeg, are contributing much of value to the musical life of this community.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Award went to The Meistersingers male ensemble.

United Church Choir Monday.

Their announcement came after a closed board meeting in Hamilton and in an interview later Mr. Matthews indicated they would be further resignations—possibly including Dr. Alan F. Hollinrake, president.

Last September Connie-Gail Feller, 20, of Ottawa was dethroned a month after she had been named Miss Canada in a contest at Burlington, Ont.

FORCE FELLER OUT

Miss Feller was forced out by a telegram from pageant officials in which it was charged she had not lived up to her commitments in making a tour.

Nina Holden of Victoria, runner-up to Connie-Gail, took over the beauty queen's duties.

A Toronto public relations officer who handled some of the pageant work said Miss Feller said some of the commitments conflicted with Jewish high holidays and that the pretty 20-year-old had complained of "inferior accommodations, wardrobe and travel facilities."

Danica D'Hondt, Miss Canada in 1959, said in Hollywood at the time she did not receive from the pageant several things she had been promised, including an air ticket to Europe and a wardrobe.

Mr. Matthews said the pageant "is broke now" and without any chances in the near future for making any money.

Lawyer Ian Stewart told the court this was her first offence and that she was five months pregnant.

MARSEILLE (AP)—French

paintings by Paul Cézanne stolen last August from the Aix-en-Provence Museum.

The masterpieces were valued by officials at $2,000,000. The haul was the biggest in the wave of art thefts that swept western Europe and particularly the French Riviera in 1960 and 1961.

Police said the paintings were found in the back seat of a stolen automobile, carrying false license numbers, that had been left on a Marseille street with one window broken.

An art expert authenticated the recovered paintings. He said they had been stripped from their wooden supports frames having been in frequent use. They were insured.

star of the show, Mischa Elman, in all his glory, playing with a violin in 1899.

Two exceptionally talented girls, Irene Lapin and Linda Morgan, from Portland, Ore., and versatile young Victoria musician, Norman Abbott, were the finalists.

All three, said adjudicator Angus Morrison, had listened well and profited by their previous adjudication.

He named Irene Lapin as

marks.

WITH TEACHER

NINA 'FED UP'

By JOHN BASSETT

Nina Holden, Victoria's 1962 Miss Canada, is expected to give up her crown and come home.

Her mother, Mrs. Ted Holden, 465 Foster, said she received three telephone calls from her daughter Tuesday and an official announcement on her abdicating the "throne" could come at any time.

Nina is "fed up" with the whole Miss Canada organization—or lack of organization. She is tired of "doing nothing" in her job of broken promises from her employers, all apparently the result of lack of finances. (See page 33).

Mrs. Holden did not know, if Nina would still enter the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City next September. Canadian officials had promised the trip to Nina and her mother.

"I don't know," Mrs. Holden told The Times. "But I do know that Nina is unhappy."

NOT LIKE HER

"I would be very happy if she came home. It's not like Nina to be upset."

Nina has been in Toronto since just after Christmas, and has been doing very little.

A cross-Canada tour has been cancelled, and a trip to Europe planned for her this summer also appears to have been dropped.

ABDICTION?

Caught in the middle of Miss Canada Pageant controversy is Victoria's Nina Holden, Miss Canada 1962. The pert 18-year-old may soon resign her crown and come home to Victoria as result of broken promises and pageant's financial problems.

POLITICIANS UNHAPPY

Businessmen See Boost In Sales, Jobs

By FRANK RUTTER

Business and industry in Victoria today hailed the new federal budget as a job-booster and sales-promoter.

However, the political reaction was "definitely unhappy."

Liberal leader Ray Perrault described the budget as "a miserable bowl of thin gruel."

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said it was "a frightful budget; no imagination."

Social Credit League president George Hahn called it "a miserable handout for all Canadians."

CUTS WELCOMED

Most enthusiastic reaction came from the forest industry which receives special tax concessions aimed at boosting sales.

Businessmen generally welcomed special tax cuts for profits on increased sales.

Industry welcomed extension of tax concessions for research.

One note of disappointment was sounded by provincial government officials who want Ottawa to share more of revenues lost by a two-thirds income tax credit against the provincial logging tax.

ENCOURAGED

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president A. E. Walters said "businessmen are encouraged by the incentive for increased sales."

"This should have the effect of making our products more competitive on the world market place," he said.

The Chamber of Commerce notes with satisfaction the measures taken by Finance Minister Donald Fleming to stimulate expansion in industry, both in production and research," he said.

MORE JOBS

"They should be effective in providing more jobs—jobs which are urgently required for our rapidly swelling labor force."

Mr. Walters said the budget seemed to be a step in the right direction for improving the economy generally.

The forest industry has high hopes of boosting world sales through the incentive provided in the budget.

"There is no doubt that the reductions in tax respecting profits will be an incentive to all."

Canada Activates Atomic Furnace

ROLPHTON, Ont. (CP)—The atomic furnace in Canada's first nuclear power station went into operation here early today, culminating seven years of research and development by Canadian scientists and engineers.

The successful startup of the nuclear reactor does not mean, however, that the $33,000,000 experimental station is producing electricity. The startup represents one of the final stages in the station which is expected to produce its first electricity within the next few months.

The station, known as Nuclear Power Demonstration, is about one-half mile from Rolphton on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River. The location is about 150 miles northwest of Ottawa and some 12 miles upstream from the Chalk River research centre of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

FATHER'S POCKETBOOK WILL BENEFIT

OTTAWA (CP)—A $50 increase in income tax deductions for dependent children was announced in the budget.

Deductions for children under 16 receiving family allowances will be increased to $300 from $250 and for other dependents, such as children over 16 attending school or university, to $350 from $300.

Finance Minister Fleming said the increase, effective next year in filing 1962 tax returns, will free about 80,000 taxpayers from paying income tax.

The changes mean that a married man with a $5,000 income and two children on family allowances will pay approximately $370 in income tax for 1962; compared with $390 for 1961.

A married man supporting two over-16 high school or university students on a $5,000 income would pay $309 compared with $326.

BLUE PLATE SPECIAL

expand employment, improve Canada's competitive position and to keep abreast of the most advanced scientific methods.

The budget did not implement the tax and tariff measures which Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced last January would be applied to halve the flow of Canadian advertising dollars to American magazines. However, such measures do not necessarily have to be introduced by means of a budget.

No further action was taken.

Tax Credit for Logging Companies

Branch operations of foreign iron ore companies will be exempt from the special 15-per-cent non-resident tax. Logging companies will get a federal tax credit to offset two-thirds of special Ontario and British Columbia logging taxes, up to a limit.

Exemptions from the 15-per-cent federal sales tax were granted to a few products in cluding fish boxes, lobster traps, honey containers and all sewage and drainage materials.

A 10-per-cent excise tax will be imposed on premiums paid to foreign business insurers to help channel the insurance buying of foreign-owned corporations to Canadians.

Mr. Fleming forecast budget outlays of $6,525,000,000 in 1962-63 or $38,000,000 less than last year. Revenues were estimated at $5,780,000,000 or $8,000,000 more than in 1961-62.

However, termination of the federal-provincial tax-rental agreements will mean a reduction of $279,300,000 in expenditures and of $307,000,000 in revenues.

Furthermore, budget transactions don't include operations of the old age security fund.

'Disappointing' Budget, Says CLC

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress said today Finance Minister Fleming's budget speech of Tuesday night "is particularly disappointing because it fails to deal effectively with Canada's number one problem—unemployment."

In a statement issued by Donald Macdonald, CLC secretary-treasurer, during the CLC's national convention here, the congress said:

160-Word-a-Minute Clip Beat Deadline for Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming raced at a rattling 160 words a minute through his budget speech to beat a deadline.

He made it—with 11 minutes to spare.

The deadline: To complete his 18,000-word text before the 10 p.m. adjournment hour of the Commons.

Earlier, the Commons was unable to reach agreement for a proposed extension beyond 10 p.m.

Mr. Fleming achieved his feat in one hour and 45 minutes before a partially-filled chamber and packed visitors' galleries.

ATMOSPHERE TENSE

With some 800 persons in the chamber, it was a steamy atmosphere charged with election-eve suspense.

The minister received bursts of applause from his Conservative colleagues whenever he made a telling political point—and his forecast of a seven-per-cent increase in gross national product this year was greeted with loud guffaws from the Liberals.

Mr. Fleming wound up with a rousing few phrases in French.

A little boar from his effort, for at least the second time.

Omissions Bring Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming omitted about 1,500 words from his prepared budget text Tuesday night on grounds the opposition would not agree to sitting past the Commons' normal adjournment hour of 10 p.m.

Opposition Leader Pearson, in a reply begun with only 10 minutes left, called the action unprecedented. He said the dropped matter was denied the Commons although presumably it will appear in public.

The omitted section dealt with international economic developments, mainly the European Common Market.

'Will Help Canada Expand And Increase Employment'

By The Canadian Press

Tax concessions to encourage Canadian production and research were widely welcomed in initial reaction to Tuesday night's budget.

While political opponents generally condemned the budget as inadequate, most business spokesmen appeared content to say "thanks" for what they got.

But some were disappointed—including manufacturers of radios, television sets and record players, who had hoped for relief from the 15-per-cent excise tax they still have to pay, despite removal of the tax from most other products.

F. D. Mathers, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said:

"With steep deficits fore and

Increase Effort for Foreign Sales

Other comment included the following:

S. J. Randal, president of General Steel Wares Ltd., and an aggressive exporter: "The incentive for increased sales will prompt industries to increase their efforts to break into foreign markets."

J. D. Campbell, president of Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd.: "This will help Canada to expand and help to increase employment."

Earl K. Brownridge, president, American Motors Can-either, on the royal commission proposals of Professor Vincent Bladen for tariff changes on auto parts. They required further examination. Mr. Fleming said to groans from Paul Martin (L—Essex East), whose riding includes the auto-manufacturing city of Windsor.

The minister announced a one-year extension to Jan. 1, 1964, of the present double depreciation program for new manufacturing investment in depressed areas or for new product manufacture.

Mr. Todgham, president, Chrysler Corporation of Canada Ltd.: "Anything that is an incentive to industry cannot help but be a stimulation to employment."

While the research concessions were widely greeted, some firms that already have big research programs gave it a wary look.

No Concessions on Present Program

This is because they won't get concessions on their already large programs, except to the extent that they may increase them; while newcomers to research will benefit.

On the whole, however, the concession was regarded as one that may stimulate Canadian firms to more research, encourage foreign firms to do more research through their Canadian subsidiaries, and help keep Canadian research talent at home.

Rudy Montgomery, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said extension of sales tax exemptions to all sewage and drainage materials will lower the cost of housing.

A long-felt grievance in the oil industry was at least partionally met. Canadian companies have complained that they are in a position of disadvantage in comparison with American-owned companies operating in Canada, because of more favorable American tax laws. Under the budget's provisions, companies and individuals will be allowed for tax purposes to deduct pre-production costs from income for oil or gas production.

H. H. Somerville, Alberta's deputy mines minister, said this will be a help to the industry.

A provision under which Ontario and British Columbia logging companies will get a tax credit to offset two-thirds of special provincial taxes will save Ontario logging companies about $900,000 a year, Ontario Treasurer James Allan said.

No Aid for Drought-Hit Farmers

Rudy Usick, president of the Manitoba Farmers' Union said in Winnipeg, "one big disappointment to drought-stricken farmers here in the west" is the omission from Mr. Fleming's budget of any special drought assistance.

"Contrary to any recent publication, farmers have not received any drought payment for crop losses from the federal government to date. The $40,000 acreage payment this year was paid on two previous years—1958 and 1960—in lieu of a two-prize system for wheat and can't be considered a payment for last year's drought."

"We in the farm union had been expecting a decision to be made by the government before spring seeding as the prime minister has been promised," he said.

Provincial treasurer A. E. Blakely of Saskatchewan said the "disappointing" budget "obviously" points to an immediate election.

Nothing for Lower Income Groups

Mr. Blakely said the budget "provides nothing for the lower income group, the additional exemption for children is a trifling matter of about 1 per cent for the typical taxpaying wage-earner, and the whole budget does nothing to stimulate any economic growth in Canada while holding little hope for assistance in solving the unemployment situation which has become chronic in the last four years."

Mr. Blakely suggested "more selective control of capital and effective aid to depressed areas in Canada would have contributed to a more realistic budget."

F. W. Bradshaw, chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce executive council, said the chamber "welcomes the stepped-up program of tax incentives which should act as a stimulant to economic growth thus creating more jobs. Especially welcome is the encouragement to do more scientific research in Canada."

Eric W. Kierans, president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, said the budget will help Canada's manufacturers meet growing world competition in the Canadian market.

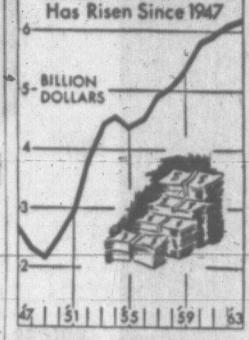

"The budget clearly recognizes that the Canadian adjustment to the new regional blocs and the liberalized trading environment will impose severe burdens on our manufacturers."

"Since we are committed by our international agreement and interests to work for 'freer' trade, the use of tariffs and other protective devices is no longer permissible. The government has neatly solved the problem by providing tax incentives for increased output and encouraging research and development."

Spur Industry Tax Rebate Aim

New Budget Approach Seeks To Aid Jobless, Productivity

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Two big tax-incentive carrots to spur industry towards increased sales and scientific research have been held out by Finance Minister Fleming.

The goals: A major increase in production and employment and a switch by foreign-controlled corporations from heavy dependence on foreign research efforts.

The new approach was outlined Tuesday night in Mr. Fleming's budget speech for the 1961-62 fiscal year. Graph shows trend in federal budgetary spending as given annually in the main estimates. Old age pensions and supplementary expenditures are not included in these totals.

people to go out and sell," commented Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister, president of the Forest Industries Council.

STIMULUS

"This will certainly act as a stimulus," said Forest Minister Ray Williston. "It will be an encouragement to increase sales in the competitive markets."

However, he was less happy about the deal Ottawa is making on logging taxes.

B.C. charges 10 per cent tax on all logging companies.

Ottawa has now said it will allow a tax credit of two-thirds of this amount. It expects B.C. to absorb the loss of the remaining third of revenue.

Mr. Williston said Premier Bennett has offered to share the loss in revenue with Ottawa on the same ratio as the corporation tax revenue is shared—9 to 38.

ONE TO TWO

Ottawa wants to share it one to two.

Mr. Williston said apparently Ottawa has now left it up to B.C. to decide how much of the loss to absorb.

Legislation is implementing Premier Bennett's plan was passed at this year's session, but does not come into force until proclaimed.

Gen. Hoffmeister said the industry was happy about the two-thirds tax credit.

"It is now up to the provincial government to state what it is prepared to do," he said.

ESSENTIAL

"Much research is essential to the development of our industry," he said.

He summed up industrial reaction to the budget this way: "It's very constructive."

Mr. Perrault said the budget was designed to help Canadians in higher income brackets, and said any temporary advantage would be lost with the effect of the heavy deficit.

"Fleming is dreaming and government is drifting," he said.

Mr. Strachan also criticized the government for getting deeper into debt. He said the tax concessions were small "and will do almost nothing for the average Canadian."

Mr. Hahn said it would have been better to reduce the deficit than give the "miserable handouts."

DUBLIN (AP)—Increased sales on cigarettes, beer and liquor were provided in a record £210,289,000 national budget presented to the Irish Dail parliament Tuesday.

LAME-DUCK BUDGET'

VANCOUVER (CP)—National leader Tommy Douglas of the New Democratic Party said today the federal budget brought down in Ottawa Tuesday night is a "lame-duck budget."

"It is very apparent," Mr. Douglas said, "that this is a lame-duck budget presented by a lame-duck government."

He said there "isn't one constructive program" outlined in the budget presented by Finance Minister Fleming.

The "enormous" increase in assistance to the provinces had helped them and their municipalities. The cumulative increase in these federal contributions to the provinces in the last five years had "given rise to federal budget deficits" and had, in fact, been greater than the cumulative budget deficits by $376,000,000.

In the same period, Mr. Fleming emphasized, the government's increase in contributions to provincial treasuries and payments to various institutions in the provinces have amounted to $2,568,500,000.

The cumulative increase in these federal contributions to the provinces in the last five years had "given rise to federal budget deficits" and had, in fact, been greater than the cumulative budget deficits by $376,000,000.

It is generally conceded among politicians that an election year is no time to increase taxes.

Mr. Fleming did not increase domestic taxes. At the same time, he had little elbow room in his pre-election budget to reduce the tax bite appreciably.

Altogether, the cost of the treasury of Mr. Fleming's list of tax changes added up to $130,000,000. He expects part of this to be covered by increased revenues resulting from his forecast of a seven-per-cent increase in gross national product this year. The net effect was to increase the expected deficit by $50,000,000 to $745,000,000.

SAFETY CLUB MEMBERSHIP CARDS

Inspections, Races for Bike Safety Week

By IAIN HUNTER

Next week, April 16 to 22, is Bicycle Safety Week. On Tuesday, bicycles owned by pupils from local schools will undergo inspection in preparation for road races at Beacon Hill Park the following Saturday.

The week's activities will be sponsored by the Victoria Noon Optimist Club.

Inspection of machines will be held on Tuesday from 6 to 8 p.m. at South Park. Sir James Douglas, Margaret Jenkins, Oaklands, George Jay, North Ward and Victoria West schools.

SAFETY CODE

At the schools, copies of the Bicycle Safety Code will be issued to all prospective participants. Each machine will be inspected to see that it suits the rider and that brakes, wheels, frames and other accessories are in working order.

If the cycles do not pass

the safety test, forms will be sent to the parents concerned recommending repairs and offering further inspection in order to qualify the machine for the race.

Riding skill also will be tested, including manoeuvrability, balance and braking.

Following an examination to see that riders know proper signals and riding technique, Safety Club membership cards will be issued,

qualifying the riders for Saturday's race.

Times sports editor Doug Peden, a former six-day bicycle racer, will give the opening address on Saturday. Prizes will be presented.

JOHN S. WILLIAMS

... administration snap

Trustee Offers To Resign

John S. Williams, Sooke School Board chairman and veteran trustee, tendered his resignation at a regular meeting of the board Tuesday night.

Reason was that he "did not have the support of the board" on reorganization of Belmont Senior Secondary School and Elizabeth Fisher Junior Secondary School.

Although the board was divided on the subject, it closed ranks in supporting a motion that the resignation be delayed by being tabled until the next board meeting.

DIVIDING PLAN

A problem facing the board at present is the division of the two schools, which at present share certain facilities. Mr. Williams feels it can be done under the existing system, which has one senior principal for both schools and a vice-principal at each. Opposing view is to have both a principal and vice-principal at each school.

Mr. Williams has spent the last 11 years on the board, and three of them as chairman. He had resigned last year, but was re-appointed as a trustee by the education minister in December when there were not enough candidates for election.

WIDE VARIETY OF LOOT IN SHOP CENTRE THEFT

Thieves broke into Gibson's shopping centre in Sooke shortly before midnight Tuesday and escaped with a varied haul.

Sooke RCMP said they took three transistor radios of a total value of $180; a quantity of clothing worth about $500 to $600 and 30 cartons of cigarettes.

Heart Attack Claims City Union Official

Victor Howard Midgley, 48, who three years ago rejected offers from his family to give up his union activities for reasons of health, died in harness in Vancouver Tuesday.

He was a vice-president of Victoria Labor Council, an official of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and had been active in uniting what used to be the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor into the present national organization.

It was after a heart attack a few years ago that his family and friends tried to have him reduce the pace of his union activities, but he would have no part of it.

REAL FRIEND

"He was a real friend and a dedicated labor man," said E. T. Staley, vice-president of Victoria Labor Council. "He will be greatly missed."

Said Ald. A. W. Toone, council secretary-treasurer: "Vic Midgley was a consistently hard worker in the trade union movement. This will come as a great blow to the people of Victoria."

Survivors are the widow, Freda, at home, 2921 Ilene Terrace; two sons, Reginald and Richard, and two daughters, Maureen and Sandra, all of Victoria; three grandchildren and a brother and a sister.

Funeral will be held at McCallum Saturday at 11 a.m.

Overnight Ride To Durrance This Weekend

Colwood Trail Riders will hold an overnight ride to Durrance Lake cabin this weekend.

It will be open to all horsemen and horsewomen in the area.

Riders will meet at 1935 Trans-Canada Highway, opposite Petrie Lake Trail Park, Saturday at 10 a.m., and return to the starting point about mid-afternoon on Sunday.

Each rider will provide his own sleeping bag, food and grain for his horse, but hay will be supplied by Colwood Trail Riders. Provisions must be at the starting point before Friday for transport to Durrance Lake by truck.

A reliable chaperone will take part in the event.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1962—PAGE 19

MONTE ROBERTS

My sincere thanks to the 262 constituents who were kind enough to fill in the Save Foul Bay Road coupon.

Of those who replied, 260 strongly opposed changing the name of Foul Bay Road. Of that 260, 26 were residents of said road. The other replies came from all parts of the city; even Sidney and Parksville were represented.

There were a dozen or so favoring a compromise; if there MUST be a University Way, let it start at Lansdowne, or, if worse comes to worst, at Oak Bay Avenue.

And, of course there were the two others who adroitly changed the coupon so it read: I DO NOT strongly oppose, etc. . . .

I especially wish to thank the handful of thoughtful constituents who sympathized with me because of the apparent danger that I might be connected with a winning crusade.

It would, indeed, be a pity to break an unbroken 10-year record of losing crusades.

But I think will manage to bear up if the city fathers, in their wisdom, decided that Foul Bay Road shall remain inviolate.

Witness this editorial in the Portland Oregonian of April 6:

The good citizens of Victoria, B.C., who are fighting a proposed prettying-up of the name of Foul Bay Road, have all the right on their side. There has been altogether too much tampering already with the robust names selected by pioneers who wouldn't have been caught dead in a prettyvile.

In Oregon, for example, latter-day citizens have been busy over the years replacing the picturesque place-names of the past with what place-name compiler Lewis A. (Tam) McArthur called "the gutless expressions of today." Dusty, in Benton County, became Bellfontain. The name of Jackass Creek, in Klamath County, was primly shortened to Jack Creek, although there are a dozen other Jack Creeks in the state. Over in Harney County, the post office of Mule was abandoned despite the objections of its best-known patron, John Hoss.

Praises be, there are a few of the old names left, although they could be offensive to the fastidious souls who name new subdivisions. No meddling, please, with Mungwump Lake, Shitfall Gulch, Fourbit Creek, Whisky Run, Mad Creek, Louse Creek, Chickenhead Gulch, Bloody Run, or any other hearty Oregon names dating from an era of candor in place-names.

REV. G. R. EASTER

Easter Farewell For Easter

Rev. G. R. Easter, minister at First Baptist Church here for nearly 17 years, will preach his last sermon there on Easter Sunday evening.

He has accepted an appointment to First Baptist Church, Preston, Ont., and will leave for Preston with Mrs. Easter soon after the farewell service.

"We are leaving Victoria with many regrets," he said, "but one of the consolations is that we shall be living near our daughter, Mrs. Eric Davis, at Kitchener, Ontario."

Mrs. Davis and her brother, John Easter, both graduated from Victoria High School.

John is now teaching at Brandon, Man., where his father was minister of First Baptist Church before he came to Victoria in 1945.

Mr. Easter's successor has not yet been named.

STAY PUT

Wouldn't the city have a better administrative centre at less financial sacrifice by staying where it is and developing what it has? Yes, say proponents, and here's why:

The city would have to spend at least $700,000 and probably $1,000,000 if it were to build a new City Hall or shift to an existing building such as the C.H. Hyde headquarters.

This would have to be raised by borrowing which, with interest payments, would double the total cost over a period of 20 years.

Rather than undertaking a $2,000,000 long-term obligation,

spur revitalization of the depressed sections of the downtown area and only spend about $700,000 over 10 years without having to borrow.

$250,000 JOB

The existing building could be completely rehabilitated for about $250,000—including rewiring, new heating, elimination

stallation of an adequate

protection.

For another $250,000, a 25-

000-square-foot office block extension could be built behind

City Hall—stretching to Broad Street—to provide the needed new space for staff.

The final $200,000 would enable the city to block off Cormorant, between Government and Douglas, for a landscaped area. Pandora and Esquimalt-Pandora and route

Ave. to swing into Government-Cormorant intersection have raised some interesting as originally planned when the questions about the long-demanded shift to a new city

Hall.

AT CENTRE

When the planned Johnson

Wharf intersection improvement is made, traffic would have a major artery running along Esquimalt-Pandora and thus City Hall would be at the south and east-west routes.

The plan would satisfy

"modernists" who want to see an efficient administrative

tionals" who are attached to the present City Hall.

The existing parking lot on the old market building site

quarters centre and the landscaped green would brighten up the very heart of the city.

The entire program could be phased so that it could be paid on a "pay as you go"

basis over a period of 10 years

ratepayers.

Perhaps most important of all, such a project likely would stimulate a wholesale re-

sections of the downtown area.

The city has embarked on a policy at a $5,000,000

urban renewal program in the north Lansdowne, Spring Ridge and Victoria West residential areas, which will cost city taxpayers about $500,000 directly over a period of years.

But the most depressed area

the downtown area—can't be touched by urban renewal pro-

BUSINESSMEN SEE HOPE IN BLUE PLATE BUDGET

FINAL ★★★ BULLETINS

Hopes Held for Pilot Settlement

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Balcer said today he holds "good hopes" that the work stoppage by St. Lawrence River pilots can be ended "before long."

Car Lot Owner Charged With Fraud

VANCOUVER (CP)—The owner of a Vancouver used car lot, Earl McLean, was remanded one week and released on bail of $2,500 when he appeared in police court today charged with conspiracy to defraud the public.

U.S. Releases Military Reservists

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy announced today that all military reservists summoned in last year's Berlin crisis will be released in August unless there is a serious deterioration of the international situation.

Sask. Medical Care Talks Broken Off

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons and the provincial cabinet today broke off discussion on the provincial medical care insurance program after meeting for 1½ hours in the morning and 20 minutes in the afternoon.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, in a statement read in the legislature immediately after, said: "It is the intention of the government to proceed to introduce a medical care insurance plan designed to meet the needs of our citizens."

Steel Price Hike Angers Kennedy

(See earlier Page 18)

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today a new round of steel price increases constitutes "a wholly unjustifiable and irresponsible defiance" of United States interests.

Kennedy told a press conference the price boost would increase the costs of homes, autos, appliances and other items for every American family.

Furthermore, he said, he has been advised the increase would add $1,000,000,000 to the cost of U.S. national defence "at a time when every dollar is needed."

UTTER CONTEMPT

"The facts of the matter are, there is no justification for an increase in steel prices."

'Display Political Sense'

GENEVA (Reuters)—The United States today pleaded with Russia to show "some reasonableness, flexibility and political sense" on the deadlocked issue of banning nuclear weapons tests.

The U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, Arthur Dean, made the plea after he read into the conference record the text of the Kennedy-Macmillan joint appeal to Russian Premier Khrushchev for a nuclear test ban treaty. Otherwise the U.S. would resume testing.

Russian delegate Valerian Zorin said he would comment on the statement at Thursday's session when delegates hold a full-scale debate on the nuclear ban deadlock.

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow radio Tuesday night described the joint British-American appeal for Soviet acceptance of an effective ban on nuclear tests as a face-saving manoeuvre.

HUGE DEFICIT

Small Tax Cuts Set by Fleming

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—A blue plate special for the go-go businessman was served up Tuesday night by Finance Minister Fleming in his pre-election budget speech.

Main feature of a budget forecasting a 1962-63 deficit of $745,000,000 and reducing the tax take by $130,000,000 was a rebate as high as 50 per cent on taxes due on profits from increased sales by manufacturing and processing firms.

Personal and corporate income tax rates remain unchanged.

If the budget was designed as a vote-gatherer in advance of the general election expected in June, it wasn't blazingly apparent.

Mr. Fleming made a modest bow in the direction of the individual taxpayer by lopping $35,000,000 from revenue in the personal income tax field.

He accomplished this by raising deductions from taxable income for dependents by $50—to $300 for children 16 and under and to $550 for other dependents, whether children or adults.

Opposition Leader Pearson, referring to the sixth deficit in a row since the Conservatives took office, said Mr. Fleming's deficit now totalled nearly $3,000,000,000.

He said the budget could be described as "vote now, pay later."

Mr. Fleming said the tax incentive for increasing sales should result in cancellation of at least $50,000,000 in taxes in a full year. This is about four per cent of all corporation income taxes which will be paid this year.

The business man's budget also provided for another $35,000,000 worth of incentives to the petroleum industry and companies increasing investment in scientific research for industrial purposes.

Mr. Fleming forecast a seven-per-cent increase in the gross national product—compared with last year's 2.5-per-cent rise—and said the central purpose of his budget was "the encouragement of economic growth."

The tax incentives were designed to spur increased production and employment.

In brief, these incentives are:

1. Cancellation of 50 per cent of the tax on the first $50,000 of taxable income arising from increased sales by manufacturers and processors and cancellation of 25 per cent of the tax on any additional income arising from increased sales. The increased sales will be calculated on the dollar value of gross sales this year against those in 1961.

Mr. Fleming said the business incentives will cost the treasury about $22,000,000 in the 1962-63 fiscal year which began April 1 and $35,000,000 in a full year.

Sales tax reductions would amount to about $2,000,000.

Mr. Pearson made the most of the 11 minutes at his disposal before the House adjourned at 10 p.m. and jabbed away at the $745,000,000 deficit.

New Power Acts Included in Suit

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Power Corporation was allowed Tuesday to broaden its suit against the B.C. Electric takeover.

Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan in Supreme Court allowed the Corporation the right to challenge two acts of the recent legislature.

One merged the BCE and the B.C. Power Commission. The other changes the compensation paid to B.C. Power for the BCE.

B.C. Power originally sued for a declaration that the Power Development Act of 1961 under which the government took over the BCE was invalid.

B.C. Power lawyer Douglas McK. Brown said the amendments to the corporation's statement of claim do no more than allege the two new statutes are unconstitutional.

BY NANAIMO EXPERT

Japanese Absolved In Salmon Decline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two fisheries scientists told a meeting of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission Tuesday Japanese mid-ocean fisheries are not responsible for a decline in several species of B.C. salmon.

Director Dr. A. H. Needler of the Canadian biological station at Nainaimo and Dr. P. Shepherd told the commission's Canadian section several years of research proves conclusively Japanese fishermen have taken no appreciable number of B.C. salmon.

Certainly not enough they said, to account for the declines in chum, pink and sockeye.

The independent United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union has ships operating west of the international Pacific treaty waters were catching vast quantities of B.C. fish.

MUCH INTERMINGLING

Dr. Needler said there is considerable mingling of Asiatic and American stocks of salmon on both sides of the treaty line but practically all such North American fish come from Bristol Bay in south-western Alaska.

GO-KARTERS FACE CURBS

DUNCAN—Go-karters who race each Sunday on the Safe-way parking lot here face regulation of their activities.

When an elderly woman complained to city council this fall of the noise caused by the tiny speeders, Mayor Jack Dobson told council he had given them permission to race with the understanding that they may be restricted if complaints were made.

Mayor Dobson said the woman's complaint was the second made to council.

Briefcase Full of Cab Permits Called 'Absurd' by Magistrate

Charge against a Sidney taxi driver of carrying passengers in the city without having a permit was dismissed by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court Tuesday on the grounds it was "absurd."

Reginald Stanley Davis, 9984 Third Street, Sidney, was charged under a section of the Motor Vehicle Act after he brought two passengers into Victoria from Patricia Bay Airport on Jan. 30.

Magistrate Ostler said if the Crown's interpretation of the section was correct a taxi driver would have to have four different permits to drive passengers from Sidney to Victoria.

BRIEFCASE FULL

"If he wanted to go to the north of Vancouver Island a taxi driver would have to have a briefcase full of permits," he said.

"In fact to be completely safe from prosecution he would have to get permits from municipalities throughout the province."

He ruled a taxi driver needs only a permit from the chief of police in his own municipality. Davis had such a permit.

"If the Crown's contention is correct it would create confusion and utter absurdity."

This section was devised for the protection of the public—not for the harassment of private citizens in the lawful pursuit of their business," he said.

Davis was represented by lawyer Jack Gatehouse.
